Draft of Fathers Delayed Till October

FEWER THAN 1 OUT OF 6 TO BE INDUCTED

WMC Delays General Call of Dads By Limiting Young Husband Deferments.

GET ONLY SIX MONTHS

Childless Men, 18 to 25, Will Be Called First Under Manpower Ruling.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The scheduled general drafting of married men with children today was postponed until Oct. 1 at the earliest and high manpower officials disclosed that fewer than one in six fathers will be called to the colors.

The war manpower commission's move toward stepping up induction of married men without children, officials said, will result in a two months' delay in the call of fathers from the original date of Aug. 1.

In an effort to stave off the drafting of fathers until the last possible moment, the WMC set a six months' limit on the occupational deferment of men between 18 and 25 without children.

Employers for the first time were told to schedule the release of fathers for military service starting Oct. 1, but officials said that this instruction does not necessarily mean that is the exact date for lifting the ban on the general induction of men with children.

Some officials said that unless a man with children classed as dependents is drafted before January he may never be called into the service.

Manpower Chief McNutt, in testimony before congress disclosed that the armed forces by the end of this month will have 9,200,000 of the 10,900,000 men they plan to have by the end of this year and that after next December inductions may be reduced about 60 per cent.

These 3 Babies Need Help, You May Have Answer

Supposing you were the mother of three babies, only a week old, and there was no milk to give them. What would you do?

That is the situation at the home of Mrs. R. E. McCulloch, 195 Buckingham street.

Three little babies were born last week at the McCulloch home and until three days ago their mother was feeding them. But then, because they took sick, it became necessary to give the three some other form of nourishment.

This was accomplished by feeding the babies their milk through an eyedropper. The procedure is fairly adequate but not exactly satisfactory for ones so young.

The mother, "Skippy," by name, is an eight-month-old rat terrier, who mournfully looks at her puppies, and appeals to someone to help her feed her babies.

The pups like mother's milk the best—do you know of a female dog in a condition to help "Skippy" for a while?

GET 19TH EGG

But Britishers Buy Potatoes at $6 a Ton.

LONDON—(AP)—Britons are receiving their 19th egg of the year this week under rationing regulations.

Potato conscious Americans, however, will be interested to learn that the surplus old potato stock is being sold at about $6 a ton for feeding pigs.

SOLE CASUALTY

Pantelleria Landing Safe Except For Donkey Bite.

LONDON — (INS) - The only British casualty suffered during the landing on the Italian Mediterranean island of Pantelleria was a soldier who was bitten by an unruly donkey, a dispatch from Keith Hooper, Australian newsman, said today.

King Of Lampedusa

Here is Sergt. Sidney Cohen, 22, RAF pilot who "captured" the Italian island of Lampedusa in the Mediterranean from the Italians, hours before the formal capitulation to British landing forces. Cohen, now being dubbed the "king of Lampedusa" was flying a sea rescue mission when he ran out of gas and was forced to land on the island during a bombardment. An Italian officer approached and surrendered the garrison.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — OPA inspectors will keep watch over all Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky vacation spots in the next few months to check for illegal use of gasoline rations, James Gruener, OPA regional attorney, said today.

(By International News Service)

As the eastern seaboard states clashed with a newly-formed midwest "gas bloc," the vital gasoline problem was dubbed a "political football" today.

While Petroleum Czar Harold L. Ickes met again with farm-state senators to determine whether pleasure driving should be banned west of the Alleghenies as on the

BAN LIFTED

Navy Men Permitted To Go Into Los Angeles Again.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—The navy today officially recognized the end of zoot-suit rioting here by lifting its out-of-bounds order.

Effective at noon, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen can spend their leaves anywhere in the Los Angeles area.

Rear-Admiral D. W. Bagley, commandant of the 11th naval district, said the ban was lifted following a message from Mayor Fletcher Bowron "assuring the commandant that the police department was prepared to handle the situation to the satisfaction of all concerned."

FORMS AGENCY TO EASE FARM LABOR CRISIS

Chamber of Commerce Group Takes Steps To Organize 'Clearing House.'

SEEK PART-TIME HELP

Those Able To Assist With Harvest To Be Urged To Enroll at Bureau.

Realizing the need of Richland county farmers for help in harvesting their crops, the Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee last night took steps to set up an employment bureau as a means of enrolling part-time farm labor.

The bureau which will work through the county extension office will serve as a clearing house for those who are willing to denote time to farm work and for farmers in need of help.

Originating with Louis Bromfield, author-farmer, and a member of the committee, the plan is set up to enlist the help of factory and office workers with some farm experience for a few hours a day.

"We know that farmers will need help to get in their crops. What we have to find out now is when and where the help is needed," George B. Ganyard, county extension agent who will be in charge of the farm labor agency, said today.

Though details for registration both of those willing to help and of the farmers are not definite they will be worked out later in the week by a sub-committee including Ganyard; John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the chamber; Reese Mills, chairman of the agricultural committee, and C. W. Handley, head of the U. S. employment office here.

Last night's meeting included, in addition to the members of the original committee, representatives of the farm bureau, the county Grange, the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, the employment office, CIO, AFL representatives, Junior Association of Commerce, Mansfield Public Schools, and several farmers.

At an earlier meeting of the chamber committee the plan was approved by the members but was taken before the enlarged group to obtain a more representative expression of opinion.

Lightning Sets Blaze at Columbus Manufacturing Plant.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Severe damage was caused today by an electrical storm which caused a fire at the Osborne and Sexton Machinery company and struck at least four other places.

Strong winds felled trees and utility poles while a heavy rain flooded streets. A machinery company spokesman estimated damage at $1,000.

Jap Vessel---Going Down!

U. S. Sub Fleet Grows, 12 More Jap Ships Are Sent To Bottom

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Navy Knox reported today that eight American submarines reported lost so far in the war have been replaced "many times over."

The secretary's disclosure at a press conference followed navy announcements yesterday United States under-sea rovers have sunk 12 more Japanese ships and damaged five for a total to date of 256 enemy vessels destroyed or damaged.

Knox was asked when the present "lull" in large scale combat would break up. "I can't tell you," he said, "except that it takes an awfully long while to get ready for any kind of sizeable movement."

He did not amplify what he meant by "sizeable movement."

The secretary said the increase in the American submarine fleet—which is known to be operating primarily in the Pacific was attained as a steady growth rather than as any sudden building up of the force.

Another factor explaining the increase in ships destroyed as indicated by yesterday's announcements was due not only to the increase in the number of American vessels on duty, Knox said, but also to the fact that "our men are learning the trade right along."

Before the war America had 111 submarines built and 173 being built, according to the last naval figures made public.

Asked about the enemy's submarine campaign against American and Allied shipping in the Atlantic, Knox told reporters that it is "in one of those lows," characteristic at times of Nazi sub strategy and that "how long that will last nobody knows."

The secretary declared that 20 destroyer escort vessels, the navy's

DIMMED OUT

Ohio City Saves Electricity After Power Breakdown.

MARTINS FERRY—(AP)—This city's 15,000 inhabitants were ordered today to dim out their homes and business places for the next three weeks to offset a loss of war-vital power resulting from a breakdown in the municipal light plant.

Mayor Lee Woods issued the power-conserving decree after the largest of three generators at the light plant broke down yesterday, threatening to curtail production in at least four district war plants.

The mayor ordered street lights and signs blacked out last night, and asked home owners to use only one light.

Bus Collides With Truck Full Of Pigs.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — A Penn-Ohio bus, enroute to Akron from Cleveland, collided with a farm truck laden with pigs at suburban Maple Heights last night, injuring nine persons.

Gerald Flock, 14, Amherst, O., a passenger aboard the truck, received the most serious injuries. Owen Felton, 17, Amherst, driver of the truck, was injured slightly.

ENTHUSED CITY WAITS WORD ON AIRPORT START

CAA Tells Officials Detailed Data on $600,000 Grant Now In Mails.

CONFERENCES PLANNED

Early Action Indicated on Acquisition of Land For New Development.

Still thrilled by the fact that the government has allocated $600,000 for airport development in Mansfield, city officials and interested civic groups were anxiously awaiting word from the Civil Aeronautics authority that would permit them to get the project under way.

And from the Chicago regional offices of the CAA today came word that they would not have long to wait.

Harold E. Horner, regional supervisor of airports, advised The News-Journal today that a letter had been mailed to city officials outlining CAA requirements and that CAA representatives will then confer with city officials on the details of the undertaking.

Mayor W. J. Locke was not available at his office this morning, but it was reliably learned that the CAA letter had not arrived at noon today.

Under the terms of the government grant, the city's responsibility is to acquire title, in fee simple, to the land needed for the port and to turn it over to the CAA for its use. It must also agree to maintain and operate the port as a public facility.

After the land has been acquired, the CAA proceeds to let contracts for the construction work, which at this time will consist of grading and draining the field, and construction of the runways, of which there will be three, each of 5,000-foot length.

FINAL DAY

Income Tax Deadline Falls at Midnight Tonight.

Deadline for Mansfielders to pay the June 15 income tax installment—the last to be paid under the old system of income tax payment—falls at midnight tonight.

Taxpayers crowded the post-office today to settle their accounts with the government before the midnight deadline. The internal revenue office on the second floor will be open until 5 p. m to help with the filling out of money order applications, revenue officials said.

Treasury officials anticipate the collection of $3,500,000,000 in taxes this month. On June 11—just four days before the deadline only about 5 per cent of the expected total had been paid. On the corresponding day in March about 8 per cent had been paid.

Oberhausen and War Foundries Take Pounding

Axis Reports Allied Warships And Transports Mass In Sicilian Straits For Blow Against Europe's Underside.

BULLETIN

ANKARA — (UP) — British authorities closed the Syrian side of the Turkish-Syrian frontier today, presumably to prevent leakage of Allied information into Axis channels.

(By Associated Press)

Germany's home front shook under a violent new storm of bombs before dawn today—the fourth assault in a row—as RAF heavy-weights blasted a fiery trail of havoc among Nazi war foundries in the Ruhr.

A British air ministry communique said the main attack fell upon Oberhausen (Pop. 110,000), an important steel and coal center on the Rhine, 35 miles north of Cologne.

At the same time, swarms of lighter RAF planes bombed, cannonaded and machine-gunned railways, water transport and airfields just behind the Nazi-occupied "invasion" coast from Holland to norern France.

Eighteen RAF planes were listed as missing.

In the Mediterranean, enemy broadcasts again asserted that Allied waships and transports were massing in the Sicilian straits, ostensibly preparing for the grand assault on southern Europe, and declared the fleet was under heavy attack by Axis warplanes. Confirmation from Allied sources was lacking.

The Rome radio was quoted by the London Express as saying that "a battle which has now lasted for three days and has not lost any of its violence" was raging in a triangular area between Malta, Bizerte and the Sicilian coast.

DNB, the German news agency, asserted that Nazi bombers damaged six Allied medium transports and a landing craft off Pantelleria. A previous Berlin broadcast said at least 20 landing barges were sunk in Bizerte harbor among "a large concentration of means of disembarkation."

Other developments at a glance:

RUSSIA — Red armies crush tank-led German drive to recapture four villages in Orel sector, big guns duel from Leningrad to Rostov fronts.

Declares United Nations Are Determined To Crush Japs as Soon as Possible.

CHUNGKING — Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell returned from Allied strategy conferences in Washington today and said "I feel that we will have a hell of a hard job ahead" in crushing Japan, but declared that the United Nations were thoroughly determined to do the job as soon as possible.

During the Washington conferences, Stilwell told correspondents, "China was thoroughly considered and her needs gone into at length."

There was, he said, a constant interchange of information between Allied leaders in China and those in charge of the southwest Pacific operations on the common task of defeating Japan.

Navy Investigates Crash of Bomb-Laden Plane.

QUONSET POINT, R. I. —(U.P.)— The navy investigated today a plane crash which touched off an air base explosion that injured four navy men and rattled windows in Newport across Narragansett Bay.

The pilot of the single-seater British plane, his rescuer and two other persons were injured. The blast occurred when the bomb-laden craft flown by a British pilot exploded, setting off a nearby supply of explosives.

ACTS TOMORROW

Election Board To Decide on Calling Off Primary.

The Richland county board of elections meets at 6 p. m. tomorrow to take formal action on whether or not Mansfield is to have a primary election.

Board members will decide on whether to accept the withdrawals of W. W. Carter and George C. Kyle, as Republican candidates for president of city council. If the withdrawals are accepted, the primary will be automatically called off.

Carter gave the board formal notice of his withdrawal yesterday. Kyle, now a candidate for council at large, earlier advised the board he wanted to withdraw as a council president candidate.

Board members said if both withdrawals are accepted, leaving Roscoe C. McGinty as the only G.O.P. council presidency candidate, there will be no primary election since neither Democrats nor Republicans will have a contest.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — An 18-year-old confessed slayer today is awaiting commitment to the Ohio penitentiary after being halted in a break for freedom by the flying tackle of a law officer in the courtroom where his life sentence was pronounced Monday.

James Borum, 18, who was found guilty in the holdup slaying of Mrs. Adeline Mosley in a cafe last fall, attempted his escape as he heard his sentence from Judge Samuel E. Kramer. He was downed by Deputy Sheriff Pat Lynch.

AIRPORT EXPANSION WILL BE GREAT FORWARD STEP

EDITORIAL

ENTHUSIASTIC approval has been the quick reaction of Mansfielders toward action by the federal government to place Mansfield in the forefront as north-central Ohio's aviation center.

The present opportunity to secure a large, modern airport is being generally recognized as opening the way for Mansfield's greatest single forward step in its history and consensus of expressed opinion is that nothing should be permitted to stand in the way of early accomplishment.

Announcement of allocation of $600,000 of federal funds "for development of a Class 4 airport at Mansfield, Ohio," comes at a time when public realization of the importance and practicability of air transportation as a part of peace-time progress is much more widespread than during pre-war years.

Customary and commendable caution has marked Mansfield's early steps toward development of airport facilities, and it has been largely through the foresight, determination and enthusiastic efforts of a few individuals that a start has been made toward what must be a vastly expanded program if this city is to maintain its high standing among progressive Ohio cities in the post-war years.

While the complete picture of Mansfield's airport facilities, as they will develop under city co-operation with present government plans, cannot yet be visioned, it is quite apparent that more than immediate war needs are to be served and that the program, in its entirety, takes a long look ahead in providing reasonable requirements for accommodating the large cargo and passenger planes which will become an assured part of post-war transportation.

Attention has been attracted to the present small and inadequately equipped Mansfield airport by the pilot training program that has been in progress for the past three years, during which time more than 500 pilots and flying instructors have been trained for army or navy service.

Whatever novelty may have attached to earlier interest in community development of airport facilities in cities of Mansfield's size, the time has arrived for practical approach to this phase of municipal development.

Just as has been the condition many times in the past, it is Mansfield's advantageous location, geographically and topographically, that makes this a logical site for such an airport as is contemplated by the Civil Aeronautics Authority of the department of commerce, with approval of the army and navy. These recognized advantages may be depended upon to extend through into the post-war period to give Mansfield a prominent place in the rapidly developing field of commercial aviation.

Linked with the allocation of $600,000, as the initial appropriation for Mansfield airport development purposes, is the natural requirement that the city meet a relatively small percentage of the cost by providing the land necessary to carry through the expansion program, and it now becomes the problem of the people of this community, through city council and other officials, to decide how this can best be done, so that there may be no unnecessary delay in carrying through the project which will have a vital bearing on Mansfield's future.

Delvers into early Mansfield history will find that at a time when what became the Big Four railroad was being projected the original intent to bring the railroad through Mansfield was blocked by a few ultra-conservative citizens who contended that this city "had enough railroads."

Such a regrettable lack of foresight must not, again be permitted to stand in the way of future community progress.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND—(By Wireless)—American bomber and fighter pilots operating out of England with whom I have talked while visiting several stations of our Eighth Air Force caution against taking Pantelleria as a standard in judging future air operations against Germany.

They point out that Italy's air defense was so weak as to be almost nonexistent. Germany's air defense, on the other hand, is growing more intense all the time.

Clapper

Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker reports that the Eighth Air Force is expanding rapidly and will double its size between now and October. Fuel, crews, bombs and maintenance are adequately co-ordinated. All this is a better gauge than the events in the Mediterranean as to how soon Hitler can be defeated. Important as Africa was, and as the new Mediterranean successes will be, still that all concerns the periphery of the enemy, the tentacles of the octopus rather than its heart, which must be reached before we win the war.

The quality of American bomber crews is being demonstrated. I have met numbers of these men who are finishing the required number of missions, which means they will be relieved for instruction work back home. Most of them have carried their missions through without protection of fighter planes. At one heavy-bomber station I met a Liberator pilot, Lieut. David Arnold, just after he had received a message that he was the father of a baby boy in Los Angeles. He has completed 22 missions, and with good luck will soon be graduated out.

These men in their early '20s take heavy ships out without fighter protection and fight their way to their targets and back. Ask them what they think about on the way over, and they answer that they think about how to fight their way back to England. Their formations are so compact that enemy fighters coming within range must stand the fire of many machine guns, sometimes more than a hundred.

I have seen many Flying Fortresses and Liberators with patches over the holes left by numerous bullets that did no harm to the crews and didn't hamper the return of the ships. But on some missions we have taken heavy losses in bombers, even though more enemy fighters were knocked down in the process. Sunday, in raiding Bremen and Kiel unescorted, we lost a record 26 bombers. Our greatest loss before that was that of 16 heavy bombers in the Bremen raid of April 17. On the last two missions in May, to Wilhelmshaven and St. Nazaire, we lost 12 and 13 respectively. Even though the enemy fighter losses average, as General Eaker says, four or five to one, the loss of one Fortress and its crew of 10 or 11 is not to be compensated for by knocking down a one-engine, one-man fighter plane, or even three or four of them.

Some air force men with whom I talked said they believed it would be better if our bombers had long-range fighter escort to the targets and back. They say enemy fighters hover around to begin their attack while our bombers are frozen on their bomb run over the target. The Nazi pilots often fight in their own flak. They also hover to pounce on stragglers crippled by flak.

American bombers could be escorted on most missions by P-38s, the twin-engine Lightnings. These are the only fighters having sufficient range. But we are using most of our Lightnings in Africa now, leaning here on the new P-47 Thunderbolt, which is an excellent altitude fighter but lacks the range to accompany deep bombing missions.

If we are going to rely on bombing to break Germany's back in preparation for invasion, the case made by our airmen for more protection of this vital weapon seems unanswerable.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

CHICAGO—From time to time in our country, local political machines have parceled out to criminal elements within their following the privileges of crime such as prostitution, gambling and even robbery. San Francisco, New York, Chicago and Kansas City have had this experience and, in each case, reform was accomplished only by brave and mighty efforts, involving risk of death to some of the reformers.

Pegler

The present, however, is the first time that it could be truthfully said and shown that the national government of the United States has deliberately followed the same course on a national scale. The national government under the New Deal party has sold for a political consideration, plus contributions to its campaign funds, the right to rob individual workers and industries, to perpetuate stickups on the highways and to terrorize individuals and whole communities. It not only refrains from interfering with such operations but protects them at the peril and expense of the whole American people. It stands in the same position as to the criminal union racket that the Pendergast political machine of Kansas City, a New Deal subsidiary, occupied in relation to the criminal underworld of that city.

Under the protection of the party, the unioneers of the New Deal's political mob have stolen hundreds of millions of dollars out of the pockets of the American taxpayers and out of the wages of the workers employed on government war projects. No accurate estimate of the total amount can be given because the union books are protected not only by legal privacy but by the government's refusal to embarrass its cohorts and thus itself.

In most large cities there is usually a ring of politicians and contractors who conspire to rig bids and shake down the people. In the national sense, that conspiracy exists between the politicians of the national government and its union proteges. Money, in the form of campaign contributions to the New Deal party, has been one consideration but the greater consideration has been the services of the rich and powerful union machine in the interests of the party just as in Kansas City the Pendergast gang turned out the vote and provided the money to win elections.

The New Deal party has made a few gestures, and those under the compulsion of hot publicity, to public decency and civic morality in this relationship. A few criminal unioneers have reluctantly and more in sorrow than in anger been thrown to the wolves. Meanwhile, however, the New Deal's supreme court has held that certain criminal actions are the special privilege of its subordinate, lawless following and has actively defeated in congress repeated efforts of conscientious men to adopt new laws or amend existing laws to the effect that the criminal penalties shall apply to crimes committed by its cohorts in the union gang.

With few exceptions those union criminals who have been prosecuted and punished have been run down by state grand juries and prosecutors, not by the agencies of the department of justice. The all-knowing FBI seems ignorant of the interstate operations of the mob which could be construed as violations of the federal law.

A more sinister aspect of the case is the fact that all this is done under a pretense of social and economic progress and is mockingly referred to as "labor's gains." On the other hand, every official, newspaper or private individual who has exposed and attacked this criminal subdivision of the governing party of the republic has been attacked in turn as an enemy of labor, an appeaser, a pro-Nazi, a Fascist and-or a disrupter in time of war.

The truth is of course that these revelations were in progress for several years before the United States entered the war and have continued in war only because the same party has continued its alliances with the rackets in wartime.

The relationship between the government and criminal elements, many of them common gangsters of the most vicious type who belong to the party's regional divisions, is far more cynical, sordid and dangerous to the political health and material stability of the United States than the Pendergast machine, for example, ever was to the municipality of Kansas City. Cities are small units and when conditions become just so bad reform takes place and if government breaks down, the state government can move in.

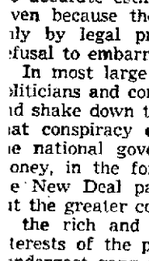
But in the nation, when the national political machine deliberately enters such an alliance with the foulest elements of the underworld and protects them by obstructing congress and by the inaction of the department of justice and the cynicism of a packed supreme court, there is no higher power to which the people may appeal. And the dark powers of the New Deal party's criminal subsidiary are so strong that thus far congress has never even questioned any union concerning its financial operations or campaign contributions, its methods of extorting money from helpless workers or the amount of money which it has looted from the treasury under cover of the war emergency.

This is a general statement which has been supported, however, in the past and will be supported in the future by many charges in specific detail.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking for Myself.

I IMAGINE the theatrical crowd is dusting off the old Shubert operetta gags for immediate issue now that after all these years a production of Sigmund Romberg's "Student Prince" has come back to Broadway. Like Gable's ears and Durante's nose, the endlessly touring "Student Prince" has been a favorite gag target for as far back as memory reaches. I have heard people in Sardi's solemnly report that the original company of this musical never actually disbanded but still tours the country in a ghostly retinue, rather like the crew of the Flying Dutchman.



Kilgallen

Tales are told of likely young baritones who stood at the Sardi bar with "Student Prince" representatives whose offer they had just declined, sipped a drink, and woke days later to find themselves singing in the second act finale of the show somewhere west of Kansas City. But that's just a sample of the legends. I imagine by now the boys are working on some fresh ones.

I guess an American can best be described as an individual who will wait in line for hours to get into a movie house and then blow his horn furiously at the car in front of him for not starting forward simultaneously with the flash of the green light. . . . There's still a tune to be written during this war that can touch the spirit of "Over There" or "My Buddy." Don't tell me we're going to look back on this war as the one that gave birth to "That Old Black Magic" and "I've Heard That Song Before." . . . I'm always glad when the Monte Carlo unveils its coolly tropical beach for the relief of city dwellers in the ice cream season. Its decor is as close to the atmosphere of seashore lolling as you can get on the lazy side of a mint julep.

I suppose the ribbing being administered to George Jessel for the dramatic account of amours past and present in his autobiography is exaggerated and to some extent unjustified, but possibly the fault lies not with the ribbers, but the times. George was born several centuries too late for his descriptions of passion in the grand manner to fall on properly sympathetic ears.

Had he been a medieval troubador or a Roman prince or an Elizabethan cavalier, his elaborate excursions to spend a few hours (and a few pages) with his own true love would have been regarded as appropriate and interesting. Unfortunately, George was born to love in nothing more impressive than a double-breasted suit and a gray fedora, and occasionally a toupee. Those were never ideal props in a romantic situation.

BITTER FIGHT FORECAST ON SENATE 'CHECK'

Bill To Require OK on Most Government Appointments Stirs Arguments.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A stiff administration fight was forecast in the house today on the McKellar bill requiring senate confirmation of government employes earning more than $4,500 a year.

But even administration spokesmen opposed to the bill in the house conceded that the outcome was in doubt, largely because of "dissatisfaction with OPA" which in recent days has been the chief subject of house discussion.

"This bill would put control of virtually the entire executive department in the hands of the senate," said Rep. Ramspeck (D.) Ga., house majority whip and chairman of the civil service committee.

"It would leave the chief executive at the senate's mercy."

Ramspeck said he agreed with Sen. Hatch (D.) N. M., that the measure as it passed the senate by a 42-29 vote would require the "reappointment" of some 27,000 federal employes by Sept. 30.

Rep. Hobbs (D.) Ala., a member of the house judiciary committee, which might be given the handling of the measure instead of the civil service group, indicated support for it saying:

"I don't know whether the judiciary will get the bill or not. I should think that there would be strong support for it in the house. I don't agree that it would give the senate control of the executive branch."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. McKellar (D.) Tenn., exempts persons employed by the federal bureau of investigation and those on the executive staff of the White House as well as artisans and craftsmen, persons under civil service merit system and those on leave or in the armed services.

Nominations of the various executives affected by the bill—including those in OPA and other war agencies—would have to be made by June 30 and be passed on by Sept. 30.

Ramspeck said a "sleeper" in the bill was that it exempted only those civil service employes who had obtained that status through competitive examination. Most of the war agency executives receiving over $4,500 "came in without civil service status" but were permitted under a bill introduced by Ramspeck to acquire this standing without a competitive examination.

STRICKEN AT 85

Woman Dies as She 'Phones For Help; Rites Thursday.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Ira Riddle, 85, life resident of Ashland county, was found dead at her home last night by neighbors. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Neighbors investigated after they were told by a telephone operator that the receiver on Mrs. Riddle's telephone had been off the hook for more than an hour. She apparently was trying to summon help when she died.

Mrs. Riddle is survived by one brother, C. W. Shidler, and three sisters, Mrs. B. C. Elson, Mrs. L. H. Wiltrout and Mrs. B. F. Zercher, all of Ashland. Her husband died in 1925.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3:30 p. m. at the Church of Christ with Rev. Frank W. Brown officiating. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

JUDGE FREES 13 IN RADAR THEFT

Convinced Men Took Parts Home In Effort To Improve Them.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Thirteen men accused of stealing parts of radar equipment, the highly secret device for radio detection of enemy submarines, planes and ships, were free to return to their jobs at the Western Electric company today as the result of an unusual ruling by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Five of the 13 pleaded guilty and asked for probation. Most of them admitted taking home rejected parts of the radar equipment for study. Judge Sullivan withdrew the guilty pleas for the five and observed:

I have read the probationary reports on these five and I don't know when any defendants before me have proved to be such good American citizens. According to these reports, the defendants took the property for study in order to improve the United States radar equipment. They were trying to perfect something better than present equipment at Western Electric.

"My conscience will not permit me to brand these men as felons I understand Western Electric will re-employ all these men."

Then, after finding the defendants not guilty, he told them:

"Go back to your jobs and do everything you can to help this country win the war. You're getting a lesson in how American justice works."

WIDOW, 81, DIES

Mrs. Carrie Hill Haynes Dies At Willard After Long Illness.

WILLARD—Mrs. Carrie Hill Haynes, 81, widow of Frank Haynes, died at her home here last night after a long illness. She had lived in Willard 68 years.

Surviving are a son, Edward, Willard, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Smith, Willard; and Mrs. William Bailey of Toledo; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Fink funeral home Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., with burial at Steuben.

Rev. Oscar M. Adam, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church here, received the degree of doctor of divinity from the Garrett Biblical Institute, the Methodist Theological Seminary at Evanston, Ill., last week. The honor was given him at the 86th annual commencement of the institute where he delivered the invocation. Rev. Adam is at the present located in Madison, Wis., where he has served as pastor of the University church for five years. According to word received here his sons, Carl and Norman, are now with the ambulance service of the British army under the American Field service.

Mansfield boys and girls who are angling for prize fish in the city's three park lakes must confine their fishing to daylight hours, Frank Burton, parks superintendent, said today. Residents near North Lake park have complained to Burton and officers of the Charles Mill Sportsmen's club, sponsor of the fishing contest, that boys have been fishing there nearly all night and have made so much noise that they couldn't sleep. Burton said he found two young fishermen at North Lake at 1:30 a. m. the other day. He warned that fishing in the city lakes must stop at dusk, or shortly after 9 p. m.

With beef as scarce as it is, Mansfield police thought they were in luck yesterday afternoon when a man came to headquarters leading a cow which he explained he had found wandering on East Fourth street near Franklin avenue. While officers were wondering if it wouldn't be all right to turn "Old Bossy" into beef if no one claimed her, the owner arrived to take her home. He was Roger F. Culler, Lucas, R. D. 1, who told officers the cow jumped from his truck while it was parked on East Fourth street.

FIRM, OFFICIALS FINED $80,000

Sandusky Company, Officers Cited In Conspiracy To Defraud U. S.

TOLEDO —(AP)—Seven officials of the Sandusky Foundry and Machine company of Sandusky, O., and the company itself, must pay a $10,000 fine each for conspiring to defraud the government and shipyards with faulty castings.

Judge Frank L. Kloeb assessed the fines in federal court yesterday. He told the defendants he would have sentenced them to maximum penitentiary terms had the court ascertained they profited personally in the deals.

In assessing the maximum fines provided under the law, the judge said he did so because he felt the company, and not the individuals, would pay it.

Six of the officials pleaded guilty last week to the conspiracy charge. They were Devereux Lake, former president; James M. Crane, jr., laboratory aid; Wilson M. Grayell, former shop superintendent; James M. Horan, former superintendent and metallurgist; Paul M. Mielke, vice president, and Harry Durden, former assistant shop superintendent.

The seventh, Alfred A. Bungle, now superintendent of the firm, entered a plea of nolo contendere.

From Shelby comes the glad tidings that all four members of the Shelby high school coaching staff are helping in the war effort by working this summer.

Grid Coach Tommy Bender has a job at the Parsel Air Depot, Cage Coach Larry Swackhamer is managing several farms, and Assistant Coach Arlo Willett is employed at Ohio Seamless Tube in the afternoon and evening, and supervises the summer playground in the morning.

Assistant Coach Raymond Hatch has a defense job while awaiting call for service with the army engineers.

Working in the summer is nothing new for Mansfield coaches. They've been doing that regularly for years. In fact, I hear that practically all of the men teachers in Mansfield's school system are working this summer.

All, that is, except Joe Thom of the Appleseed faculty, who has doubled at times as coach of Pioneer athletic teams.

Joe goes to the army June 24.

"I got a quick promotion," Joe told me. "When we went to Columbus for examination, I was made acting corporal in charge of seeing that the group of 114 men got back to Mansfield all right, and reported for service on the 24th." Tell me, Joe, are corporals as popular as sergeants?

* * *

As for Mansfield coaches—. Harry Mehock and Vern Hoffman have their usual summer jobs at Tappan Stove, and spend their spare time in the garden.

And Paul Snyder works round the clock.

Beside running Liberty park swimming pool in the daytime and evening, he works third trick at Mansfield Tire, and toils in the garden in the morning. When he sleeps is a mystery.

Incidentally Snyder is among the football coaches who are unhappy because of the recent voting out of spring practice by Ohio High School Athletic association "for the duration."

But he isn't crying over lack of football coach representation in the vote He's been around long enough to know the score when a football vote comes up

"If we ever needed spring practice, we need it now with the war going on, and taking out senior and junior athletes," Snyder declares "If we have to wait until fall to weed out our material and pick our squads, we'll never have time enough to coach fundamentals and develop teamwork for the early games

"Practice before school opens doesn't help a bit" he pointed out. "Most of the boys old enough to play football have summer jobs and are not available for early practice."

Trading Deadline Reached

Medwick Reported on Block By Dodgers.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

TODAY is the deadline for making trades in the major leagues without geting waivers.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have been trying to peddle Joe Medwick for several weeks without getting any satisfactory offers, but if Branch Rickey has made up his mind to turn loose the one-time great slugger of the National league, this is the day he might do it.

The club most likely to take him would be the New York Giants. The Giants not only need strength on the field, but they need to convince their fans that the management is trying to get talent.

Yesterday the Giants traded Outfielder Herbert (Babe) Barna to the Boston Red Sox for Southpaw Pitcher Ken Chase. Neither of the players involved have accomplished anything notable in the last two years.

The Giants also recalled two pitchers, Hugh 'East and Rube Fischer from their Jersey City farm club in the International league, replacing them with Ken Trinkle and Bob Coombs.

Another deal yesterday was the purchase of Infielder Don Heffner from the St. Louis Browns by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Only three games were on yesterday's program, but they enabled the leaders in both leagues to increase their margins

The New York Yankees whipped the Washington Senators 4-1 The triumph increased New York's lead over Washington to three games.

In the National league the world champion St. Louis Cardinals checked the Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

The Boston Braves beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3

Drew Second Highest Pay

But Cobb Had To Go To Athletics To Get It.

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK —(AP)— Top paid performer in baseball history was Babe Ruth who was paid $80,000 for one season Not much is known about the few other real large salaries but it is fairly certain that Ty Cobb drew the second biggest pay check—$65,000.

That was the amount Connie Mack gave Cobb when he came to the Philadelphia A's after his long career with Detroit. Cobb was near the end of his playing days then. Ty got $35,000 his second season with the A's. He had a number of good money years with the Tigers, particularly during the time he was manager but probably never got as much as Mack gave him.

It's been almost 15 years since Cobb called it a day and few of today's generation of baseball fans ever saw the Georgia Peach in action Cobb was a great hitter and a good fielder but his chief fame came from his daring on the base paths He was the game's greatest base thief. His most startling feat was authored in 1912 when, against the Yankees, he scored from first base on an infield out, without the aid of an error.

Cobb on first got the hit-and-run signal, and as the pitcher wound up, Ty was on his way The batsman hit sharply to shortstop, but there was no chance of a double play on the flying Cobb so the shortstop made the play to Hal Chase at first base

Instead of pulling up at second or even hesitating Cobb turned the base like a whirlwind and set out for third Chase was about cutting loose a peg to that base when Cobb stopped dead, halfway between second and third. He stared at Chase and the great first baseman stared back, for half an instant Then Cobb feinted back toward second; Chase whipped the ball there; and Cobb broke for third. His pick-up was so amazing that he had an even chance to bear the relay from second, by a good slide.

But he did not slide. He knew the man at second must make a half-turn to relay the ball to third. He knew the third baseman would be expecting a hook slide. And Cobb turned the base faster than he had gone around second and set sail for home.

Sure enough, the third baseman received the throw on the outside and had to turn all the way around to peg to the plate, after getting it through his head that Cobb was still running The throw was right down the baseline after Cobb: naturally, it was a trifle high, and Cobb went in with a beautiful fallaway and scored. Cobb was never the fastest of base runners, in sheer speed. But no man ever has run bases as he did.

Ty Cobb's favorite story is one about a rookie outfielder. It was in the days when Cobb was the scourge of the basepaths and the unwritten baseball law was never to throw behind him. The Georgia Peach rammed a line drive out toward the youngster. Cobb turned first base as the rookie picked up the ball. Without a sign of hesitation, the green hand rifled the ball to the home plate. Ty Cobb was not going to outmaneuver him.

HIRSCH ELIGIBLE TO PLAY FOR MICHIGAN

MADISON, Wis. —(INS)— Elroy Hirsch of the University of Wisconsin, one of the outstanding halfbacks of the middle west last fall, will report at the University of Michigan July 1 for training as a Marine corps reservist, it was announced today.

He will report under the V-12 basic training program which will make him eligible to play football under the tutelage of Michigan's Fritz Crisler.

Still Retain Hitting Lead

Stephens and Dahlgren Continue To Set Pace.

NEW YORK —(AP)— If you're busy today checking up on how much income tax you have to rush to the collector, it won't take you much time to check up on the major leagues' leading hitters.

Those same two sluggers who have been on top for weeks, Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns and Ellsworth Dahlgren of the Philadelphia Phillies, still are holding the fort.

Stephens' average today was exactly the same as a week ago, .369, twenty-nine points ahead of Cleveland's Oris Hockett, who continued as the second leading hitter in the American league.

Dahlgren's pace slipped slightly from .367 to .359, but he was able to maintain a three-point edge over the fast-rising Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals. Little Dixie extended his consecutive game batting streak to 21 during the week and increased his average from .348 to .356, thereby moving from third to second in the rankings.

Stan Musial of the Cardinals, who was the runnerup last week with .352, skidded to .333 and fourth place behind Frank McCormick of Cincinnati.

In the American league Johnny Lindell of the New York Yankees, who was third last week, also went into a tailspin that cut his mark from .317 to .249 and placed him sixth among the hitters in the junior circuit.

But the National league had ten batters with averages of .311 or better but the weak-hitting American league had to take in marks of 276 to count the same number of leaders.

Brewers Climb In Flag Race

Win 12 Out of Last 17 Games Played.

(By Associated Press)

The Milwaukee Brewers, gaining fame as one of the most dangerous hitting clubs in the American Association, have won 12 of their last 17 games—scoring 30 runs in their last two victories—to skip into a tie with Minneapolis for second place.

The Brewers last night gave Toledo its worst licking of the year,

This time it was Pitcher Eddie Hanyzewski, the South Bend, Ind., fireballer, who not only hurled a six-hitter but also collected three hits in five trips, including a two-run homer.

The Brewers' win, plus Kansas City's 6 to 3 victory over Columbus, enabled Milyaukee to soar into a second place tie from the second division while the Redbirds and Toledo became locked for fourth

Don Hendrickson held off Columbus by sifting eight hits while the Blues went to work for 14 blows off a pair of Redbird hurlers This batting spree was paced by Jack Saltzgaver with a triple double and single, and Al Lyons with a double and two singles.

Weather caused postponement last night of two games, Louisville at St Paul and Indianapolis at Minneapolis.

KNOX KAYOED

TAMPA Fla —(AP)— Tommy Gomez, Tampa heavyweight, knocked out Buddy Knox, former Dayton, O., battler now stationed at General Mitchell field, Cudahy, Wis. in the fifth of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. It was the 39th knockout in 51 bouts for Gomez, who weighed 186. Knox weighed 205.

Hitters Still Hit 'Though Tribe Drops

ROY CULLENBINE ORIS HOCKETT WARREN ROSAR

Although the Cleveland Indians have been dropping steadily in the major league standings, this trio of Tribal hitters keeps among the first five hitters in the loop. Oris Hockett, the outfielder who didn't know whether he wanted to play ball this year or not, tops the trio with a .340 average. Buddy Rosar, the catcher who shuffled off to Buffalo as a Yankee a year ago and then came to Cleveland in a trade later, is whacking the ball at a .313 pace. Roy Cullenbine, the all-around handy man who plays right field for the Tribe, follows Rosar with a .312 mark. A very unusual situation for a team to have three of the five leading hitters in the loop and yet be almost at the bottom of the loop in team standing. But this, as all baseball fans know, is an unusual year.

Redlegs Drop One To Cards

Teams Tangle Today In Double Header.

ST LOUIS—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds go after the St. Louis Cardinals twice today in an effort to pull them down from the pinnacle of the National loop.

The Cincinnati Athletes got off on the wrong foot yesterday when Mort Cooper bested Ray Starr 5 to 3.

Up to the sixth, both flingers allowed but four hits, then weather interfered for 14 minutes and when the teams took the field again, the Champs leaped on Starr's offerings for four runs on two intentional passes and four solid base blows, the payoff being Catcher Walker Cooper's triple with the bases loaded.

* * *

The Cards picked up another run off Bob Malloy. Rookie righthander, in the seventh, before Lefty Clyde Shoun took them in hand.

The Reds scored their runs off Cooper in the final two frames. Frank McCormick, blasted his fourth homer of the year in the eighth after Lonnie Frey opened the round with a double.

In the ninth, Eric Tipton hit a triple followed by Estel Crabtree's single to score the Reds final run before Bert Haas pinch-hit into a game-ending double play.

Manager Southworth, who always seems to have a guy around who is building himself a consecutive hitting streak, continued in that enviable class today as Harry Walker, little brother of Brooklyn's Dixie Walker, hit safely in his 21st consecutive game. Previously Stan Musial and Whitey Kurowski compiled hitting streaks of 22 games each.

MEET TIGERS

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, who escaped the American league cellar by splitting a double header with St. Louis Sunday, engage the third-place Detroit Tigers at the Stadium tonight in the opener of a three-game series.

Southpaw Al Smith is the Indians' hurler while Manager Steve O'Neill is expected to nominate his ace left hander, Hal Newhouser.

If Newhouser starts for the Tigers Pat Seebey will play left field for the Tribe Manager Lou Boudreau announced yesterday the 20-year-old rookie would replace Jeff Heath whenever a portsider pitches for the opposition. Heath will be used only against right handers until he emerges from his batting slump.

Seerey has become the new "people's choice" because of his spectacular fielding and his refusal to be a sucker for big league pitching. He has made four hits in 13 trips to the plate for a .308 average.

A Cleveland radio station gives war bonds to Indian pitchers who pitch shutout games.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ned Irish is laying plans for a college basketball season at Madison Square Garden next winter, though he admits it probably won't be basketball as usual . . . Bucky Harris fined two of his Phillies' players 50 bucks apiece for missing the bus to an exhibition game at Camp Shanks, N. Y., last week . . . Larry Atkins, the Cleveland fight promoter already is planning to move into Detroit Olympia and the Chicago stadium as matchmaker after the war.

FOOTBALL TRADITION

The last time West Virginia and Virginia Tech played football in Charleston, W. The next year in Huntington, W. Va., Ira Errett Rodgers led the Mountaineers to their most recent victory over V.P.I. . . . They're slated to meet again in Charleston this October because the war interrupted the W. & L. series.

Secretaries, Stewards Lead

Joe Mayer Sets Pace In Moose Loop Opener.

Stewards and Secretaries jumped into the lead in the championship race as the newly organized Moose golf league got under way at Coolridge golf course last evening. Each team scored three points in their first matches.

Fellowship and Prelates tied at 2-2, while Managers defeated Treasurers 2-1, with a postponed match still to play.

HAEGG SCHEDULED FOR SPECIAL RACE

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— The Central A. A. U. today disclosed plans for a special race July 2 between Gunder Haegg, Sweden's greatest runner, and Gregory Rice, foremost American distance star.

Herman Fischer, Central A. A. U. president, said Haegg's participation is "definitely assured," and arrangements for Rice's presence would be completed shortly.

The event would be held in conjunction with the Central A. A. U. track meet. Fischer said several stars, including Ensign Cornelius Warmerdam, world champion pole vaulter, have been invited to compete.

SEGURA SETS PACE IN TENNIS TOURNEY

MONTCLAIR, N. J. — (U.P.) — Francisco Segura, South American tennis star ranked fourth in the United States, led 14 players into the third round of the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Singles championship tournament today.

Playing for Miami University, Segura defeated Marvin Silver of C. C. N. Y., 6-2, 6-0, in the first round and downed Dan McGraw, Princeton, 6-1, 6-1, in the second yesterday.

Maple Lake Wins In 9th

Johns Park Scores In Every Inning.

After Cates had tied the score with a 3-run rally in the eighth inning, Maple Lake came back with the winning run in a 4-3 victory last evening in one of the best games played to date in the Parks Association softball league.

Cates got only three hits off Foster and B. Regula, while Maple touched Anthony and Windsor for 11.

Johns Park scored in every inning to defeat John Todd 15 to 9, while marking up 21 safe hits. The losers got their nine runs on only six hits. Uhlich and Perry hit home runs.

No-Hit Tilts Hard On Fans

Suffer More Strain Than Do Pitchers.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—No-hitters are harder on fans and teammates than on pitchers, says Johnny Vander Meer—who should know. He gained baseball fame by hurling two such games in five days.

Johnny was recalling those two consecutive no-hit, no-run victories today, the fifth anniversary of the second game.

By pitching a no-hitter June 11, 1938, against Boston and on June 15 against Brooklyn at night, Vander Meer, than a 23-year-old Cincinnati freshman, set a major league record. Never before or since has a major league pitcher elbowed two no-hitter consecutively, or even in one season.

* * *

Baseball immortality, even in the minds of the game's immortals, fades quickly and the husky, blond left-hander had no idea it was five years ago he made the record books.

"It's water over the dam," he grinned.

Was he harassed by doubts or fears as the hitless innings stretched longer and longer?

"No, I wasn't. Personally, I think those games were harder on the fans or the boys on the bench than on me. You see, I figured I had the second no-hit game in my lap, and I figured "What the heck, if they get a hit, what can I do about it?' and the answer, of course, was 'nothing.'"

In his own second game "I remember I didn't use a curve ball until the sixth inning. For the first five I used nothing but fast balls, then the last four I started throwing lots of curves."

* * *

Johnny hurt his arm in 1940 and was off form for several months, but he did show a flash of his freshman brilliance in tossing a one-hitter against Philadelphia the next season.

Against Mort Cooper of the Cardinals he opened the Cincinnati home season this year with a two-hit shutout victory, then picked up another two-hitter several days later.

But he decried any intimation he was trying particularly to equal his 1938 record.

"You never know," he described that subtle baseball item called stuff. "One day you got it, the next day you haven't"

NATURALLY WE'RE PROUD
Of the ARMY-NAVY "E" Award....

Instituted by the Navy in 1906, the "E" was awarded first for excellence in gunnery, later for outstanding performance in engineerig and communications. In this war the "E" Award has been extended by Navy and Army to embrace plants which show excellence of a high order in production of equipment for carrying the war to a successful ending. Tappan has qualified for an honor not easily won nor lightly bestowed.

ARMY E NAVY

TAPPAN

---AND YOU'RE NO DOUBT INTERESTED IN A FEW OF THE REASONS WHY TAPPAN EMPLOYEES HAVE EARNED THIS HONOR . . . .

1. Tappan is unique in that a large percentage of the products produced were designed here in Mansfield. Unwilling to wait until the Government handed out war contracts, Tappan sent Engineers to all War agencies, found out what the Army and Navy needed and came home to design and build it for them.

2. Tappan men and women have been on the job. Absentees represent only 1.6% of man hours worked. The average war plant has 5% of its employees absent at all times and many plants' absentees run as high as 10% or more.

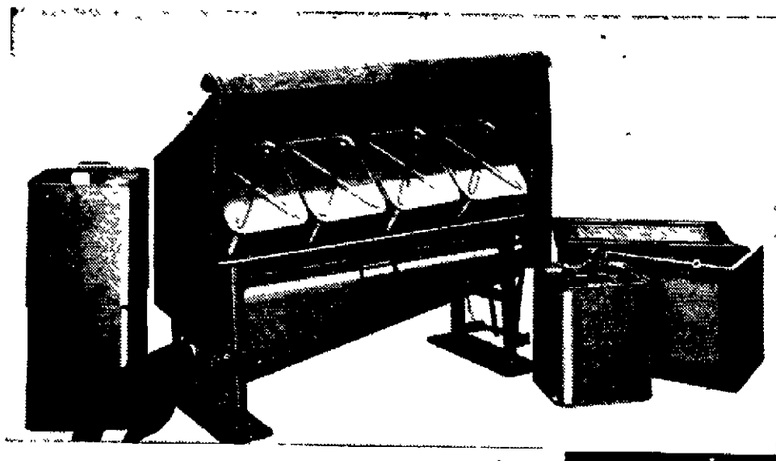
3. The quality of workmanship has been excellent. Critical manufacturers like The Glenn L. Martin Co., Curtiss-Wright, Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. and Chance-Vought Aircraft have yet to turn down a single Tappan part for defective workmanship.

4. Tappan people have been busy. Twenty-eight different products have been built for the Navy, Army Air Force, Quartermaster, Army Transport Service, Chemical Warfare Service and a half dozen leading aircraft manufacturers.

5. On every one of the 28 items built by Tappan, delivery has always been ahead of schedule. In more than one instance, delivery has been started to the Government before the Government's order arrived through the mail.

6. The record of delivery always ahead of schedule has partially resulted from an extensive program of subcontracting to other factories. Many of these plants are located in Mansfield and to them for their assistance Tappan says

"Thank You for Helping Us Win the ARMY - NAVY "E"



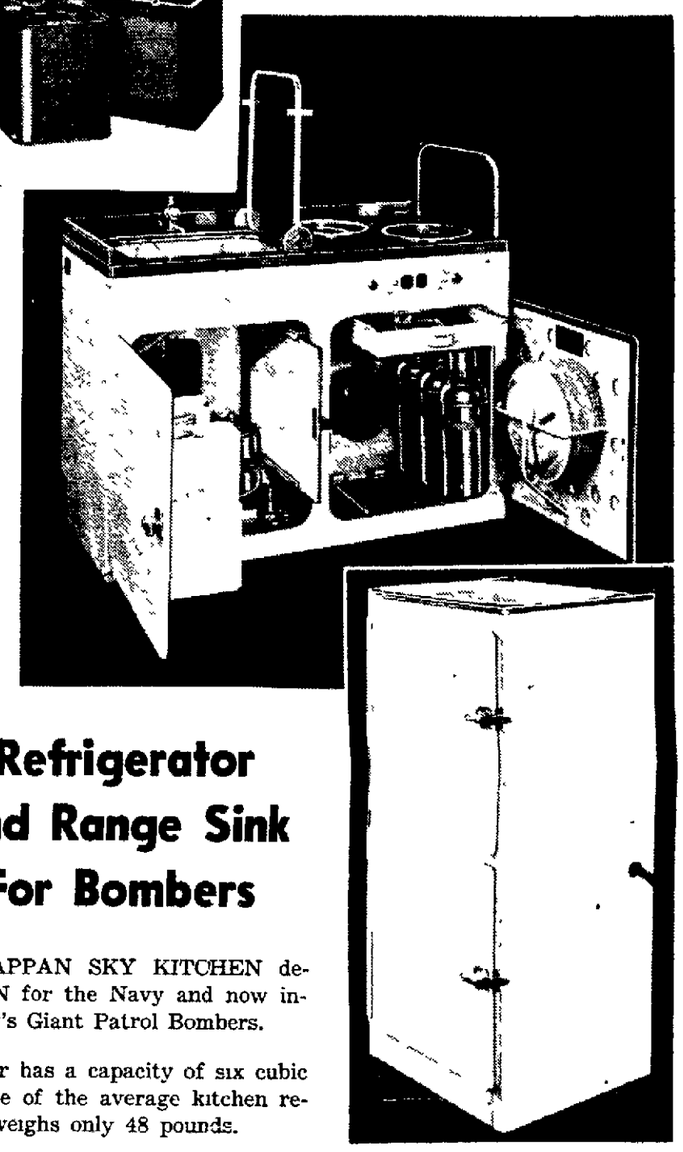
FUEL CAN and FUNNEL
(Top Left)

The illustration above shows the Airplane Refuelling System designed and built by TAPPAN for the Armed Services The System consists of light weight gasoline containers which may be carried by airplane The containers are tapered so that one container rests on top of another, thereby utilizing the maximum amount of critical cargo space

To save the time required to refuel gasoline tanks when one can is poured at a time, Tappan Engineers designed a multiple funnel so that four cans may be poured simultaneously The funnel has adjustable legs to fit the contour of any airplane wing With this system it is possible to fill airplane tanks at a rate of 40 gallons per minute.

The funnel is covered with a quickly removable canvas canopy which may be installed in case of rain or sandstorm to keep the gasoline uncontaminated.

Tappan men and women have been building these containers in tremendous quantities for over a year and they are now in use at numerous advance bases.



Refrigerator and Range Sink For Bombers

This is the TAPPAN SKY KITCHEN designed by TAPPAN for the Navy and now installed in the Navy's Giant Patrol Bombers.

The Refrigerator has a capacity of six cubic feet—about the size of the average kitchen refrigerator—yet it weighs only 48 pounds.

The galley includes a Sink, and Electric Range and cupboard space, in which all the utensils necessary for cooking are ingeniously stowed.

This Tappan Kitchen was also recently installed on three airplanes which have just been completed for use by President Roosevelt and the White House Staff.

We're All Buying At Least 10% In War Bonds

To Tappan Men and Women in the Armed Forces!

We've been busy doing what we can to help you in your big job of winning the war. But while we have been turning out war products in ever increasing quantities, we haven't forgotten about you. In a quiet corner, a group of skilled men are working daily to improve our regular Domestic Appliances so that, when the war is over, we can offer the public a better product which will result in work for all of you.

WHEREVER YOU ARE—YOUR FELLOW WORKMEN SALUTE YOU!

TAPPAN PLANT HAS OPERATED HERE 54 YEARS

Company Receiving 'E' Award Tomorrow Was Founded In Bellaire, O.

While award of the Army-Navy "E" to the Tappan Stove company at ceremonies Wednesday afternoon will be in recognition of the company's contribution to the war program, plant officials and employes might also consider it as a reward for 54 years of service in Mansfield and 62 in Ohio.

The Tappan company has been in continuous operation in Mansfield since 1889 and before this war it had become one of the nation's leading manufacturers of stoves and ranges.

Founded in Bellaire, O., by the late W. J. Tappan as the Ohio Valley Foundry company 62 years ago, the firm was moved to Mansfield eight years later to become the Eclipse Stove company. It held that name for nearly 30 years before the Tappan Stove company title was adopted in 1921.

In 1919, the Tappan company introduced a range with round corners, the forerunner of the modern stream-lined gas range. Before that all ranges were built like boxes.

A year later, Tappan, Westinghouse, and the New Method Stove company joined in the construction of an enameling plant which they operated jointly until 1934 when the plant was sold to Westinghouse. Tappan then built its own enameling plant.

Other innovations in the stove industry which were introduced by Tappan included the first fully insulated gas range in 1926 and the divided top for ranges, first used in 1930. The insulation feature is a popular one with housewives who don't like to "stand over a hot stove" on warm days.

Although the Tappan company began building a number of types of stoves during its first years, its gas range has been the firm's major product for the past decade. The Tappan name has been carried to virtually every corner of the globe.

The company proudly points out that some of its stoves and ranges are still in use after 30, 40, or even 50 years. Although the firm halted all production of ranges last year, it still advertises for its dealers to prepare the way for a return to large-scale retail sales after the war is over.

The "E" flag which the company will receive tomorrow was won for production of materials for marine and aircraft use. Because a large part of the firm's war output goes to the navy, it was natural that the navy should be the first to recommend the company for the award.

A number of the Mansfield firm's employes have held stock in the company for many years and the workers and executives frequently sponsor activities for the good of both—and the public.

The company has the group life insurance plan and a credit union for the convenience of employes. For several years, employes with more than a year's service have had vacations with pay.

Now one of Mansfield's major industries, the firm's annual payroll amounts to more than one million dollars.

W. J. Tappan was head of the company until his death in 1936. His three sons have been in control since then.

TAPPAN 'E' TO BE CITY'S FIRST AUTHORIZED BY NAVY OFFICIALS

Although three Mansfield firms have qualified for the Army-Navy "E" award in this war, the Tappan Stove company tomorrow will be the first to receive the honor on the recommendation of the Navy department.

Awards to the Hughes-Keenan company and Westinghouse were granted at the request of the army. Regardless of the source of the recommendation, both army and navy have joined in making the presentation to the Mansfield firms producing for the war program.

The symbol for excellence in performance, the "E" award was first made by the navy in 1906 for outstanding gunnery work. It was made later for excellence in engineering and communications work.

When it became essential in this war to produce quality materials in the shortest possible time, the army adopted the "E" as its reward for good work and the "E" pennant and pins were given to industrial firms as well as to the fighting forces to signify the importance of the home front.

The "E" flag goes to the industrial unit that meets the government qualifications for production while pins are presented to the firm's employes.

If the winning firm maintains its high production standard or improves it, a star will be added to the "E" flag at the end of each six-month period.

By extending the Army-Navy award to the home industries, the government believes a new spirit of kinship between the makers of weapons at home and the men who use them at the front will be created, bringing about a better fighting unit.

Statement From Company Praises Employe Efforts

In recognition of the cooperation and work of employes of the Tappan Stove company which won them the coveted award of the Army-Navy "E," company officials today issued a public statement of their appreciation.

"To Tappan employes, we are proudly and sincerely indebted for the spirit and application which has caused our company to receive recognition by the government for excellence in production and other qualities, and to be honored by the award of Army-Navy 'E,' the statement said.

"We extend to each of you (including those who have gone into U. S. service) our thanks for this splendid interest and performance, which reflects credit on each Tappan employe in his patriotic endeavor to supply the best and the most to help the men at the front to bring this war to a just, and as early an ending as possible," it concluded.

DEVISES DAGGER

BELLEVILLE, Ill. —(UP)— A double action dagger for hand-to-hand fighting is Charles Goldberg's gift to our armed forces. Besides the sharp blade, the knife has handle fitted to the fingers that can be used as "knucks" if the going gets close.

Goldberg, an iron and metal dealer, fashioned two of the knives out of an old sword and had the handles made of scrap aluminum. There are a lot of old swords around, he believes, and all of them should be used to make weapons for our soldiers. He will donate the handles—all he needs is more blades.

WAVES TO BE PRESENT FOR TAPPAN AWARD

They'll Form Color Guard at Ceremonies; Details of Program Announced.

Tappan Stove company employes will receive the reward of their production efforts tomorrow when they are presented with the Army-Navy "E" for excellence of production.

Army and Navy officials will present the award, first navy-recommended "E" earned by a Mansfield plant. An unusual feature of the ceremonies will be a color guard of WAVES from the Cleveland field branch of the Bureau Supplies and Accounts of the Navy department.

The ceremonies which will begin at 2:30 p. m. will be held in the parking lot opposite the plant on Wayne street. In the event of rain the ceremonies will be held in the armory. A section of seats in the front rows will be reserved for the workers.

Major Alan Tappan, Army Air Force, acting as master of ceremonies will speak briefly on the award as it applies to Tappan and will introduce the speakers. The program will be opened with the "Star-Sangled Banner" played by the Mansfield High school band under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe and the presentation of the colors by the WAVES color guard.

Lieut. Commander A. E. Heiser, chief resident inspector, will present the Army-Navy "E" flag which will be raised by the color guard. Paul R. Tappan, president of the company will accept the award.

Major Albert C. Crawford, 5th Service Command, Ft. Hayes, Columbus, will present the "E" insignia to the workers in behalf of whom Ralph Farley, president of the Independent Employes Association of Tappan, will accept the insignia. Assisting in the acceptance will be Glenn Charles, International Molders' Union, Miss Dorcas Bertsch, and Harry Harbeson, employe with the longest service record.

MAJOR TAPPAN WILL PRESIDE

Company Vice President, Now With Air Corps, To Serve as Master-of-Ceremonies.

Especially appropriate for the presentation of the Army-Navy "E" to the Tappan Stove company tomorrow is the appearance as master-of-ceremonies of Major Alan P. Tappan, the company's vice president, now with the United States Air corps.

Major Tappan was vice president in charge of sales when he reported for duty with the air corps.

Not a newcomer with the armed forces, Major Tappan served in the first World war and on the Mexican border.

After entering the air service more than a year ago he was made officer in charge of flying at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. Later he was assigned to duty in England with the U. S. Air Force. Several months ago he returned to this country and is now located in Washington, D. C.

Other officers of the company who will be in attendance tomorrow for the presentation ceremonies are: P. R. Tappan, president; W. H. Tappan, vice president; A. C. Rhoads, secretary-treasurer; board of directors, P. R. Tappan, W. H. Tappan, Rhoades, C. V. McConnell, R. M. Lamb and W. C. Horr.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS
TAPPAN STOVE CO.

For your achievement in being awarded the Army-Navy "E" Pennant for quality and quantity production.

BUILDS BOMBERS

TUCSON, Ariz. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Molly A. Crouch of Consolidated Aircraft's Tucson division claims the title of being the smallest woman actively engaged in war production work. She stands only four feet, 9½ inches tall and weighs a mere 85 pounds.

To top it off, she works on America's biggest bomber, the B-24, or Liberator.

PRICES RISE IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore. —(U.P.)— The cost of living has risen more in Portland in the last two years than in any other major city in the United States, according to an index compiled by the department of labor. It now takes $1.25 to buy what a dollar formerly did.

Gable On Duty In England

VALUE IN NAME

MAXWELL FIELD, Ala. —(INS)—Maxwell Field contradicts William Shakespeare and claims "There is something in a name."

Take the name "Brothers," for instance. Walter R. and Earl P. Brothers, who are brothers, are aviation cadets at the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight school.

But that's not all. Another brother, Herbert H. Brothers, is an aviation cadet in the Gulf Coast Training center. The eldest brother among the Brothers is Col. Clyde L. Brothers, at Army Air Forces flight surgeon at Tampa, Fla.

WEALTHY STREET CLEANER

PERTH, New Zealand —(U.P.)— A street cleaner who dropped dead here was found to have 5,000 pounds on his person. He was over 70 years of age and had acquired his "fortune" working for the Wellington Public Works department.

American submarines damaged in distant waters often receive repair parts by airplane to enable them to return to service within a few days.

LOAN COST REDUCED

ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $150

— EFFECTIVE AT ONCE —

This new loan rate offers worthwhile savings to those whose budgets have been upset by the June income tax installment. Now is the deal time to clear up all those scattered bills that have troubled you. With only one place to pay, you can organize your way out of debt on an orderly repayment schedule adjusted to fit your purse. Of course, we make small loans too. For instance, $20 for 30 days costs only 60c. But if you need as much as $200, $300, or even $450 or more, remember Interstate's new rate offers you a real reduction on your loan cost. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or present proper identification and evidence of employment.

Borrow at Household without fuss or bother on your salary, furniture or car—without endorsers. Pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Example: a $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44, but if repaid in one month costs only $1.50. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 3% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 but not exceeding $300, and ½% per month on any remainder.

STOCK RETREAT EXTENDED WITH TODAY'S TRADE

Consumer Credit Falls Off Four and Half Billion In Last 18 Months.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Leading stocks extended Monday's retreat by fractions to a point in today's early market transactions.

On the offside at a quiet opening were Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, American Telephone, Du Pont and General Electric.

Boardrooms studied the Federal Reserve summary which disclosed that consumer credit outstanding had fallen $4,500,000,000 in the past 18 months.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Wheat and rye futures extended yesterday's decline at the opening today, influenced by profit taking sales and lack of demand. Oats held comparatively steady.

Wheat started ⅛-¾c under the previous close, July $1.43⅞-¾, September $1.43¾-⅞, and then steadied. Rye started ⅛-½c lower, July 96¼-96c.

RITES TODAY

Mrs. Ulmer, Wife of Jeweler, Stricken at Galion.

GALION—Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of the First Reformed church, was to officiate this afternoon at funeral services for Mrs. Stella J. K. Ulmer, 58, who died Saturday afternoon at City hospital. She was the wife of J. H. Ulmer, Galion jeweler and optometrist.

Services were scheduled for the Snyder funeral home and burial was to be in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Ulmer was a native of Crestline where she was born July 29, 1884.4 She was a member of the First Reformed church, Naomi chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and the Dorcas society of the church. She had lived in Galion 34 years.

Among the survivors are the husband; one son, Arthur of Berea, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Ashbaugh, Columbus, and three grandchildren. Mrs. Martha Rexrode of Mansfield is a sister.

ENTHUSED CITY WAITS WORD ON AIRPORT START

CAA Tells Officials Detailed Data on $600,000 Grant Now In Mails.

with sod safety strips at each end, for a total length of 7,850 feet.

These are required for a Class 4 airport, the type to be constructed here. Class 4 airports are the only types capable of handling the largest commercial and military planes, and there are only seven municipal Class 4 airports in Ohio, all in cities much larger than Mansfield, although one of the same class is to be built at Zanesville.

Although the $600,000 grant does not include construction of buildings or installation of night lights, the feeling persists in authoritative circles that the CAA will provide additional funds later for this work.

The army and navy now hold the disbursement of critical materials needed for such work under strict control, and release them only for military installations. After the war, however, the needed materials will be available for non-military work.

In the case of Zanesville, an original grant of $750,000 has been doubled.

Horner's message to the News-Journal also confirmed the fact that preliminary surveys of possible sites had already been made by the CAA, but it did not reveal what the sites were. The message said no decision on the site question had been reached.

However, the tone of the message left no doubt that CAA was ready to move speedily to lay the groundwork for the start of construction.

Actual work is scheduled to start early in 1944, since, as the CAA said yesterday, there is no military urgency in the situation, and the port is intended chiefly for post-war use, when the United States is expected to step up the tempo of air transport to an almost unbelievable pitch.

An inkling of at least one phase of that development came to light today as the Greyhound corporation, operating a nation-wide network of bus lines, asked for permission to experiment with helicopter buses. (Helicopters are planes that can rise and descent vertically, and fly backwards and sideways as well as forward).

While this experiment was believed intended primarily for short hauls, and would not require the use of airports, it was also described as being intended to serve as a feeder to major air lines.

The Associated Press in a dispatch from Chicago quoted C. E. Wickman, Greyhound president, as saying the air bus service would not compete substantially with existing airlines. Instead, he said, the air buses would supplement transcontinental and global airliners by providing quick and convenient means of reaching major airports in metropolitan cities.

Thus, if the plan were adopted to commercial use, it would allow a manufacturer in, say, Bucyrus to load a shipment of freight aboard a helicopter beside his own factory, and within a few minutes have it delivered to the Mansfield port, where it could be quickly transferred to a giant freight plane, capable of reaching either New York or San Francisco in a few hours.

Greyhound's plan, to adapt present bus terminals and bus garages for use as landing ports and hangars in a nation-wide helicopter air bus service was filed today with the Civil Aeronautics board.

The application said that Greyhound lines proposed to operate helicopters or similar aircraft to provide passenger, mail and express service over their present bus routes

"Our studies have shown a definite need on the part of the nation for the type of air transportation we propose to operate," C E. Wickman, company president, said today.

Although lack of equipment at present probably will make the air bus service a post-war project, Wickman said several helicopters may be made available for experimental use "in the near future."

SERVICES SET FOR MRS. STONE

GALION — Funeral services were to be conducted at 4 p. m. today at the family home east of Galion for Mrs. Adella K. Stone, 78, who died Saturday at her home following a lingering illness.

Elder Edward Herzel of the Seventh Day Adventist church in Galion was to be in charge with burial in the Bloominggrove cemetery.

Surviving are seven children, Benton of near Bloominggrove; Mrs. Dwight Ludwig of Lima; Fred L. Stone and Miss Ethel Stone, both at home; Glen of Galion; Mrs. Myrtle Newman of Leesville, and Aliver Stone of Bloominggrove; nine grand children, one great-grand child; one sister, Dr. Nellie Stevens of St. Petersburg, Gla., and a brother, Ben Stevens of Bloominggrove.

FDR TIPS HAND ON FOURTH TERM

Indicates He'll Run Through Appointment, Says Times.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The New York Times said today President Roosevelt's move in sending to the senate for confirmation as United States attorney for the southern district of New York the name of James B. M. McNally was interpreted here "as an almost open declaration of a fourth term candidacy by the president."

McNally, a personal friend of Michael J. Kennedy, jr., Tammany leader, is chairman of Tammany Hall's law committee.

"Tammany, gratified by the step, was practical enough to interpret it as 'political fence-building' looking forward to the 1944 Democratic national convention," the Times said in a page one news story.

THEATERS

Real Irishman.

Michael O'Shea, who plays a top role in "Lady of Burlesque," now at the Ohio, is an Irishman, through and through. Mike was born on St. Patrick's Day, 1906. His climb to success is an interesting one. At the age of 14 he got a job as a drummer in a jazz band. Later he joined a bigger band that played fairly important theaters in large cities. In 1932, he turned his talent to radio and auditioned for a role in a "G-Man" program. A few years later he was producing, directing and acting in radio shows on WTIC, Hartford, Conn. He returned to New York in 1940 and appeared on such radio shows as "We, the People," Cavalcade of America" and "March of Time."

City Without Men.

"City Without Men," Columbia's picture now at the Park, deals with a young man who is sent to prison after he is unjustly accused of helping Japanese aliens into America, and his fiancee's fight to prove he is innocent. Linda Darnell is seen as a young school teacher who is about to be married to Michael Duane, the accused traitor. She visits Judge Malloy (Edgar Buchanan), a brilliant lawyer in his day, but who now is an outcast because of his love for the bottle. Judge Malloy, although he realizes his reputation is against him, takes the case, his first in two years. He wins it. Other picture is "Chatterbox."

Quiet Please, Murder!

A public library is the setting for much of the action in "Quiet Please, Murder," the 20th Century-Fox at action which opens today at the Ritz. A library guard is discovered lying on the floor of the library—strangled. A priceless Shapespeare folio has disappeared. The library provides the background for the gunplay as the killer backtracks to the scene of his crime, and is trapped there by detectives. George Sanders and Gail Patrick are featured as a pair of merciless gangsters. Richard Denning plays the role of a tough detective who leads the capture. Fibber McGee and Molly and Betty Grable are starred in the co-attraction, "This Way Please."

USE LESS PAINT AND SAVE WITH—
Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT

Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT covers solidly more square feet of surface per gallon, wears longer and actually costs less to use than cheap paints. And here is why! Recognized laboratory tests show that many "cheap" paints contain as much as 63% of water and other evaporating liquids—and only 37% of protective film-forming solids. But Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT contains 90% of surface protecting, film-forming solids. That's why it costs less to use—why it spreads evenly and saves time and money.

NEW BOMBINGS SHATTER RUHR WAR FOUNDRIES

Axis Reports Allies Massing Ships In Mediterranean For Invasion.

lied bombers drop 30 tons of explosives on Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain; three other enemy strongholds attacked.

WASHINGTON — Navy announces 12 more Japanese ships, including a destroyer, sunk by American submarines in Pacific.

BURMA—American and British bombers pound Japanese in widespread raids.

Axis commentators, nervously speculating on where the next Allied blow would fall, named Sicily and Sardinia as the likeliest targets and a majority predicted the attack would come this week.

Swiftly following the conquest of Pantelleria, Lampedusa and Linosa, the tiny lighthouse isle of Lampione, eight miles west of Lempedusa, was reported to have been captured without opposition Sunday.

INVASION—Jittery Italians rereceived new jolt to their mounting fears today as the Rome radio warned them to stand by for an Allied landing, and declared:

"The decisive phase is approaching.

"Our men are ready at their guns, our planes are ready and our sailors are on the watch," he said. "Every Italian is ready to fight and fight until final victory is achieved."

London newspapers today quoted the Rome radio as saying that Allied warships and transports are massing in the Sicilian strait following Allied occupation of the tiny island of Lampione, the last of four islands in the channel to be wrested from Italian control.

A Reuters dispatch from North Africa reported the capture of Lampione yesterday, saying it fell on Sunday. The island's inhabitants—a few lighthouse keepers—were reported to have fled.

The German news agency DNB, in a Berlin broadcast said today that Axis air attacks were continuing against the Allies potential invasion fleet in the Sicilian strait.

German bombers damaged a landing craft and six medium transports off Pantelleria and in the harbor, DNB said, and also reported that heavy bombers attacked Bone on the Algerian coast last night.

Ask de Gaulle, Giraud To Air Differences

ALGIERS — (UP) — Six new members of the French committee for national liberation asked Generals Charles De Gaulle and Henri Honore Giraud today to submit their differences directly to the committee to settle the crisis in French affairs.

As an alternative, the group suggested that the leaders, who are divided over De Gaulle's proposed reforms in the army, make a strong effort to iron out their problems prior to a regular committee meeting on Thursday.

The petition proposed that an agenda be drawn up for committee action, listing four questions to be decided These include whether Giraud is to have complete control of the army or whether he will share it with De Gaulle.

Nazi Cities Being Evacuated En Masse

BERN, Switzerland — (AP) — German newspapers received here said a mass evacuation of cities in western Germany was under way as the result of 180 heavy raids by Allied planes and 600 air alarms.

The Nazi press is engaged in a campaign to impel rural residents to open their homes to refugees

Much-bombed Duesseldorf, target of a recent 2,000-ton RAF raid, is one of the chief cities being evacuated, the German papers said. Communiques from Berlin have reported very heavy losses there.

Not only the bombed-out families but those yet untouched by the explosives are being moved out, Das Reich said. Men are left behind to work.

Crete Guerrillas Ready for Knockout

LONDON — (U.P.) — Gen. Manoli Mandakas, commander of a Cretan guerilla army numbering several thousand men, notified the Greek government in exile today that his forces were waiting for the signal to strike an all-out blow.

The armed patriots on Crete were said to be primed for an attack against the Axis garrisons there as soon as the Allies invade the island.

"Our people know that the hour of freedom is approaching," Greek sources quoted a message from General Mandakas. "They are ready to aid the Allied armies. We only await orders."

The guerilla army has been able to build up a small arsenal through attacks on Axis garrisons and convoys, informants said, and stand ready to put their resources to the best possible use.

RUSSIAN TROOPS CAPTURE VILLAGE

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—Russian troops have captured a village near Sumy, 90 miles northwest of Kharkov, and have killed 200 Germans in one sector alone in beating off strong counter-attacks on newly-won Soviet positions northeast of Orel, the Red army announced today.

The Germans counter-attacked in strength with air and tank support northwest of Mtsensk, some 30 miles northeast of Orel, the hinge of the southern and central fronts, the mid-day communique said, but were thrown back in confusion with heavy losses.

U. S. SUB FLEET SWELLED, KNOX

Secretary Bares Increase as Navy Reports 12 Japanese Ships Destroyed.

number one anti-submarine type of craft, are expected to be completed this month.

Knox emphasized that in his opinion the campaign against enemy submarines "won't be won until the war is over."

He said the improved situation in the Atlantic, was due to an increase in the number of ships and planes available to fight U-boat bases on the northern European coast, including also interruptions to submarines voyaging to and from their bases.

The navy said yesterday its undersea forces had sunk a destroyer and 11 other Japanese ships, mostly cargo vessels, probably sank an additional craft and damaged three more.

In another graphic disclosure, the navy told how one of its submarines slugged it out with a Japanese submersible on the surface and sank it.

These fresh triumphs cushioned—and avenged—loss of the submarines Amberjack and Grampus which the navy said last week-end were missing with theirs crews and presumed sunk.

Invents Skates To Move Army On Paved Roads

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Troops will move up to new battlefronts on roller skates, where paved roads are available, if the government accepts the suggestion of Charles Shye, inventor of a new type of skate, designed especially to transport soldiers with full packs on their back.

As streamlined as a racing car and as sturdy as an ox, Shye said today that the skate is particularly adapted for use by troops because it is "very maneuverable; a pair costs less than a pair of army shoes to make, and weighs 4½ pounds."

Shye, who has offered both his services and his skate invention to the government for the duration at the rate of a nickel a year, said that while the skate was designed especially for use by the armed forces, it has civilian wartime value in that it could be used by defense workers traveling from their homes to their jobs and back again, by letter carriers with their big bags of mail, policemen and by just the average citizen at a saving of millions of gallons of gasoline, thousands of tires and much leather annually.

He pointed out that it might also be used by those in bombing areas, including stretcher bearers, in order to relieve traffic congestion.

BABY PHOTOS GO BY V-MAIL

They Can Be Sent Overseas, Under Restrictions.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The latest V-mail innovation will permit sending baby's picture to daddy at the front, provided, the regulations emphasize, the child is less than one year old and was born since daddy went overseas.

The photograph must not occupy more than one-third of the correspondence space on regulation V-mail form. It should be pasted in the upper left-hand portion to avoid creasing when the reproduction is folded, the war department announcement said

View Of Sicily, Believed Allies Next Goal

RESULTS OF R. A. F. ATTACK on the chemical works at Catanzaro, Sicily, are shown in this picture, approved by the British censors. Reports submitted with it told of a factory and a train at the railroad station being hit during the same bombing mission. Bombing occurred some time ago.

New Guinea Plans To Re-Open Vast Acres Of Rubber

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—(U.P.)—Between 50 and 100 civilians will be returning to New Guinea shortly to resume production on about 50 rubber and copra plantations which were left behind the zone of ground operations when American and Australian troops reoccupied Papua.

Virtually the entire civilian population of New Guinea was evacuated when the Japanese landed at Lae and Salamaua last year In most cases plantations were abandoned when their white managers were recalled to the mainland or joined the New Guinea Volunteer Rifles.

As many plantations as possible are now to be restored to their pre-war status in order to help meet the urgent demand for latex and copra. The army has agreed to release enough native labor to work the plantations.

Plantation executives who were absorbed in the army will revert to civilian life, but the management of the plantations will be under the supervision of the Australia and New Guinea Production Control board, formed to foster and co-ordinate production and stabilize the recruitment of native labor.

It is believed that about 20,000 acres of rubber and 60,000 acres of copra are involved in the scheme.

FORMER POSTAL CLERK, 77, DIES

Miss Laura Claes Had Been Ill 13 Weeks; Rites Today.

GALION—Funeral services were to be conducted at 3:30 p. m. today at the Volk Funeral home for Miss Laura N. Claes, 77, former clerk at the Galion postoffice, who died Saturday night at City hospital. She had been ill 13 weeks. Rev. William A. Martin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was to officiate and burial was to be in the Fairview cemetery.

A native of Galion where she was born Oct. 17, 1866, Miss Claes was a member of the First Presbyterian church, the Ladies' Guild of the church, and the Fortnightly club. She was employed at the postoffice for a number of years, but had retired several years ago.

east coast, a spokesman for the eastern states gasoline dealer association accused Ickes of "complete disregard for public opinion and morale" as far as the east is concerned.

The spokesman—counsel Sol A Herzog—said a meeting of consumers and industry representatives will launch a drive for an immediate investigation of the situation. He added:

"If this part of the country is being wiped off as a democratic asset for the next election and therefore, tight restrictions are being centered here and not permitted to extend to other parts of the country for vote-catching purposes, then the people of this section should realize that they are being made the victims of a political mousetrap and that maybe the war is not being fought on a non-partisan basis at home."

To the general hubbub, congressmen added their voices as Wisconsin's Senator La Follette declares he did not "wish to see gas restrictions placed on the midwest simply because another district, due to physical difficulties, was compelled to do with less gasoline."

Representative Cunningham, Iowa Republican, said there would be no need for rationing changes in the midwest for at least two months due to a "wonderful surplus" of gasoline there.

In reply, Rep. Hartley, New Jersey Republican declared the midwest's charges that the east wanted to pass along its headaches "didn't do us justice."

Meanwhile, the gasoline-hungry east felt the pressure of curtailed petroleum supplies. Kenneth B. Backman, regional office of price administration head at Boston, warned that many "B" and "C" book holders face possible loss of their gas rations as New England inventories dwindled

"New England burned 2,500,000 gallons more in one week than it got," Backman said

oughly determined to get after him."

Asked if more supplies were coming to the Orient, Stilwell replied, "the clearing of the Mediterranean will ease up the shipping situation considerably."

Allied action in the Orient, he declared, had been and would continue to go coordinated.

"During the Washington conversations," Stilwell said, "China was thoroughly considered and her needs gone into at length."

He praised the support which the Chinese forces on the Yangtze front have been getting from the 14th United States air force.

It may now be disclosed that Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the 14th air force, who went to Washington with Stilwell, arrived back in China on June 4.

Stilwell said he was struck by the work done in North Africa, by the obvious efficiency of the Allied operations there and by the enormous amount of material that was abandoned by the Axis and which littered wide areas of the battle fields.

Stilwell said he was very much impressed with the spirit of the people back home in America.

"They are accepting rationing and pitching into the war," he declared. "Everybody's playing the game. The country is united, determined and cheerful. We are going to see this thing through."

Rabaul, Jap Shipping Feel New Punches

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today far-ranging U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators dropped nearly 60,000 pounds of explosives on the Japanese keystone base at Rabaul, New Britain, and blasted a 4,000-ton enemy transport in Humboldt bay, Dutch New Guinea.

Two direct hits with 500-pound bombs left the ship in flames.

Other Allied warplanes sank or damaged 11 Japanese barges along the New Guinea coast, and also bombed the enemy stronghold at Kaimana, Babo and Tuam island.

Tokyo Sheds Some Crocodile Tears

(By United Press)

Radio Tokyo shed crocodile tears Tuesday for the "poor American workers" who have been "slave driven" by the president to the extent that 11,000 are killed or injured every day building war materials.

"Hello America," Tokyo said. "Eleven thousand United States workers are killed or injured every day.

"Yes Americans, due to inefficiency and sabotage the loss of American industrial manpower was 3,960,000—I'll repeat that figure, 3,960,000 — during the one year since the outbreak of the present war." (Actually 18 months)

"What a price to pay for losing the war!"

MARK MATCHES VERSE IN BIBLE

COLUMBUS, O.—(UP)—Biblical interpretations were placed on the "Rev. 10-1-42" notation which appeared on gasoline ration stickers here.

OPA officials said it was a printer's mark, meaning "revised Oct. 1, 1942."

But Biblical students said it could stand for Revelations, 10th Chapter, verses 1 to 42.

The second verse of the 10th chapter of Revelations reads:

"And he had in his hand a little book open."

That's the motorist, they claim, driving into the filling station these days with his ration book prepared a new survey of the national food situation expected to be the most pessimistic yet issued. The report due to be released within the next few days was reliably understood to reflect the "considerable damage" caused by the floods in the middle west and northeast as well as by dry weather over much of the great plains.

New congressional demands were being made today by a bipartisan committee in a White House conference for appointment of a one-man boss over the wartime bread basket.

This followed an attempt made yesterday by a delegation of five senators and four house members to achieve the same purpose. Their attempt was thwarted when they ran up against the opposition of Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes.

DRAFT OF DADS DELAYED UNTIL OCTOBER FIRST

WMC Limits Deferment of Childless Married Men, 18 To 25.

service regulations employer schedules filed after July 1 must provide for release of occupationally deferred childless men between the ages of 18 and 26 within six months unless their jobs are "exceptionally important to the war effort and extremely difficult to fill."

Employers were instructed to include fathers on the list but the instructions provide that no fathers be scheduled for release before Oct 1. Officials said that this means that fathers in key jobs will have to justify their continued deferment after Oct. 1 on the basis of occupation instead of family status

Single men "who are equally replaceable" will be listed for release to the draft ahead of childless married men and the latter will be released before men with children.

Officials said that no directive authorizing local boards to reclassify men with children has yet been issued except for those in non-deferrable jobs and that none may be drafted until such specific instructions are given.

Another factor which may delay further the drafting of fathers was the disclosure by Selective Service Chief Lewis B. Hershey that many of the more than 2,800,000 men previously rejected for physical reasons may be inducted because standards are now lower.

Hershey told a house committee that adoption of lower physical standards by the navy might postpone the induction of fathers.

In announcing the revision of its occupational deferment regulations, WMC officials said that the new limitations on childless men specify those 18 to 25 because few men that young are likely to hold positions so important that they cannot be replaced.

Employers were told to observe the following guide rules in scheduling replacements:

1 "Generally, those who will be replaced first will be those in occupations having the shortest training and replacement time."

2. "Single men who are equally replaceable should be listed ahead of married men who are equally replaceable and, likewise, men from these groups should be listed ahead of men with children."

3. "Registrants with equal of comparable replaceability and with equal selective service status, will be listed on the replacement list in accordance with order number."

Enjoy the economy of driving a high-quality, late-model

Used Studebaker

Engineered to save you tires and gas

GOOD used cars of all makes are getting scarce. But if you have a choice, make sure the used car you buy is a Studebaker.

Thousands of motorists are now driving used Studebakers because of the remarkable tire economy and gas economy assured by Studebaker engineering.

There's no needless bulk in a Studebaker to overload its tires or overtax its gas supply. And the high quality of Studebaker materials and craftsmanship keeps repair costs down.

Come in and make a selection from our stock of used Studebaker Champions, Commanders and Presidents. We also carry good used cars of other makes—and you need no special authorization to buy one.

America's greatest group of craftsmen built our used Studebakers— Their painstaking workmanship is reflected in the top resale prices that used Studebakers command, should it become necessary to sell yours. There's a lot of unused mileage in every used Studebaker.

Studebaker trunks give you a lot of extra room—A big trunk means a great deal to many of us these war days when cars have to do extra duty delivering things. You get an unusual amount of trunk space in a used Studebaker.

Thousands of new 1942 Studebakers now released for sale

Car rationing has been liberalized—and a great new group of motorists can now obtain new cars. You may be eligible. Come in and we will tell you—and we'll give you every possible help with your application.

AN APPLE FOR EVE --

CHAPTER XXXV

Agnes Fayre and her children were with Loveday and hers late one Sunday, playing in a barn at Indian Hill, when Chris joined them.

The shadowy cool old stable burst into constellations of stars for Loveday, and for what seemed an endless time everything seemed to be whirling about her. It was with great difficulty that she made herself move and speak. She had no conception of what he said or what Agnes said. Chris was cool and pleasant and seemed to be taking command of the situation easily. He had not met Agnes before. They talked of New York and Washington, found mutual friends about whom to gossip.

Agnes and her children, the latter somewhat crumby and milky, drove away into the darkness at 6 o'clock, and when Loveday had settled the children off upstairs and descended once again to the library she found that Chris had kindled a good fire and was sitting there looking into it, his body bent forward on the low davenport, his locked hands dropped between his knees. He rose at once and came toward her and took her shoulders in his two firm hands, holding her off to look at her. His face was tired and sad.

"My dear, this has been very terrible!" he said.

"Oh, Chris! It has seemed so long!" It wasn't what she had meant to say—it was exactly the opposite of what she had meant to say—but the words seemed to come of themselves.

"We must never do this again."

"No." She breathed the little word half unconsciously.

"I've thought of you every hour. I've stopped at the desk at the hotel every hour until I was ashamed to look the clerk in the face. And there was no message, no letter! I thought one day—I was down on the tennis court, half asleep, and a girl in a tobacco-colored sweater like yours, with the sun on her hair, something like yours, came down the steps—and I thought it might be you! But it was never you."

He drew her to him, kissed her, and held her tight.

They sat down on the davenport before the fire and for a few wonderful minutes could only say each other's names and drink in the sight of each other's faces. And when words did come they were laughing and inconsequential for sheer joy.

"I love your coming in and kindling a fire before you even sit down! And what a grand fire, too. Where else did you ever build fires except here, Chris?"

"I've a little camp next to the Abernathys' camp up in Maine. And I can tell you that if I don't build fires there we don't eat! Did you miss me?" he asked.

"Every minute." No use attempting to deny it.

"But you wouldn't say so?" he reproached her.

"Because you knew it."

"God, did I know it!" He shuddered, shook his head. "It's been endless aeons!" he said. "But it's over now, and it's over forever! I'm on my knees; I'll make any terms, darling. So you will tell me—you tell me how it's going to be."

His cheek rested on her hair; now and then he stirred and she felt his lips there.

"Chris, if we could die now, when we're together again!"

"But we're not going to die. The very best of everything is ahead of us. This is no time to die; this is our hour to live, Loveday."

* * *

Then the silence of utter content again. And then the sharp voice of everyday, this time exemplified by Martha, halfway down the dark hall stairs in her nightgown and wailing on sleepiness and terror.

"Mother! Mother! Owen's awake and he says his finger hurts where he touched the nettles!"

Loveday was away like a flash, comforting Martha as she guided the small girl upstairs again, lighting the nursery, busy with assuaging treatment for the ills of the weeping Owen.

"We screamed and screamed for you," Betsey said reproachfully from her bed, "and Martha said she was scared to go down, but I was worse scared, and we thought Owen might die."

"He's not going to die; it isn't even the hand he got the nettle sting on," Loveday murmured, tucking in small forms, administering drinks of water. She tapped off the light, heard three grateful and apologetic good nights. Then she stood still in the darkness for a minute.

This room, the nursery now, had been her grandmother's room. Suddenly there came back to Loveday the sound of the voice she had so often heard here in this warm, shadowy place.

"Be a woman of thy word, Loveday. Through good, through bad, bearing his children, keeping his house, bind thyself to thy man with ropes of steel. If thee does that, thee'll work thy way through to happiness in the end."

"My God!" she whispered to the encircling dark. And for a long moment she could not move. Then she heard Chris call from downstairs.

"Mrs. Fayre on the telephone, Loveday!"

Loveday went down. Agnes had lost her wrist watch, unless she had left it at Loveday's house? Yes, Loveday said in the darkness of the back hall where the telephone was, Betsey had found it on the stairs.

"Mr. St. George is just going, Agnes; would you like him to bring it to you?" she said. It was not quite half-past eight after all; Agnes could not find any fault with Christopher's remaining until that hour. Agnes answered at once that she would not think of troubling Mr. St. George; she would come over in a day or two and get it.

Chris had gone back to the davenport by the fire; she could see his dark head over the back of the seat.

Could he hear her talking? Could he hear her dialing a number? Suddenly she knew that she must risk it. Her finger jerked the dial about; it seemed to make a great noise. She heard the little hum that meant the number was ringing.

"Hugh," she said in a tone as soft as a blown feather, "Can you come? I need you."

She heard only Hugh's surprised, quick "Sure!" before she put the receiver noiselessly in place.

Chris was sitting on the low davenport when she went back to the library, his locked hands fallen between his knees, his somber eyes on the fire. Loveday slipped into the great chair; her heart was beating fast. Was he angry?

"I wonder," he began presently, not moving, not looking at her, "if we might settle this tonight? You told Mrs. Fayre that I was going right away?"

"I had to," she said with a nervous laugh. "It's quarter of nine."

"As if that mattered," Chris said, half to himself. "My God, as if time mattered with you and me! Loveday," he went on, suddenly pushing a low hassock to her knee, seating himself on it, and grasping both her hands in his own, "do you love me, dear? Can't you tell me that, once and for all? Do you think I'm fooling? Do you think there's any fun in this for me? Won't you say—'I love you, Chris. I'm yours! I trust you. I'll go with you—leave the details to time to settle—prove to you that I'm not afraid, that I'm all woman when I love!'"

"Sh-h-h!"

"No, I'll not be hushed, darling. Loveday, Loveday, Loveday, you know what you mean to me! You know how I hate this creeping into another man's house, listening every minute that we're together for the sound of his key! Won't you be generous to me? Ah, you do love me, sweetheart, don't you?"

"I am intoxicated—I am transformed by what I feel for you, Chris," she said in a whisper; "no woman's heart in the world could feel more. Just to have your brown face there, dear, so near—so near that I can lay my fingers against it, so, is something—something for me to remember. Remember when we parted, Chris. When we can't see each other any more."

"We will never be parted now," he said. I am going to stay here as your guard—to guard what is so infinitely precious to me, until I can take you tomorrow to Nevada and leave you and the children there."

"Chris, this is good-bye, tonight. Don't you see that it must be so?"

She leaned her face against his and burst into tears as she said it, and they clung together.

"You mustn't cry," he said, "you mustn't be afraid. Nobody can separate us. You love me; you said so."

"And I love other things more, differently," Loveday said thickly. She groped for his handkerchief, wiped her eyes, gulped, and tried to smile with sopping lashes and a trembling mouth.

"We have only a moment, Chris. Hugh is on his way home."

"Hugh!" Chris released her from the hold of his arm and looked at her with darkening eyes. "He said good-bye; he was going to camp. "When did he say he was coming?"

"Just now. I telephoned him," Loveday answered, paling. "When I talked to Agnes."

Suddenly they were both standing, looking at each other harshly, like strangers, in the soft lamp and firelight. In the silence they could hear a car coming up the drive in the silent night, hear the jerk of brakes and the slam of a door.

"I must go," Chris said then, simply, in an almost absent-minded tone. "I—I left my coat out here, I think."

He went to the door, walking a little undecidedly, stopping once to look about him vaguely. He did not speak to Loveday again, but she heard Hugh's greeting in the hall and Christopher's voice saying good night.

She stood perfectly still. Her life and the world and the stars in their courses seemed cold and dead.

Much later that night, when Hugh had gone to bed and the big house was silent, she did write to Larry. Her pen moved steadily over a page, another page. Then she put her head down and rested it for a long time on her arm, and her whole body shook with sobs.

Asserts U. S. to Reach Peak War Production In '43

NEW YORK—(INS)—The beginning of the new year, according to Alfred P. Sloans, chairman of the General Motors Corp., sees our war workers relieved of much of the uncertainty that usually comes with wartime conditions. The workers, he said, have a definite goal, which is accelerated "production of war materials to the maximum."

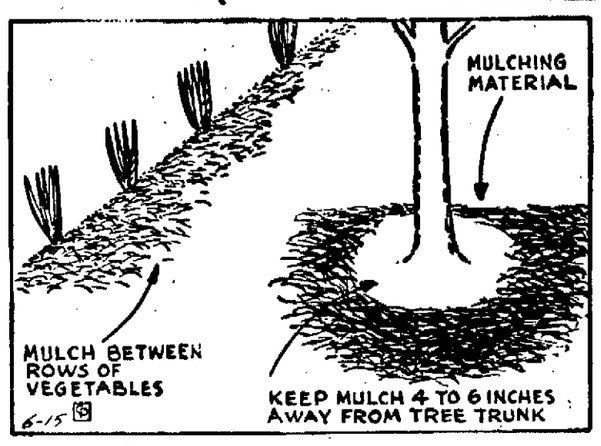
"The trend for 1943," he added, "may be expected to follow closely the trend of this past year, but in far more intensive form."

The peak of war production and the minimum of civilian production is due this year with "maximum sacrifices for individuals, industry and the armed forces."

As far as possible industry must start to plan for the postwar era because "industry at that time must take a vital part toward winning the peace," he asserted.

"The better the understanding of the facts and circumstances that must be faced at that time and the more planning that can be done—where planning is possible without prejudicing the war effort—the better will industry be prepared to make its contribution to the real objective, the end purpose for which the war is being fought."

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Use of Mulches In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Ass'n.

Mulching is one of the best methods of conserving moisture in the Victory garden. Mulch material helps the soil to retain moisture by preventing rapid evaporation, and this in turn keeps the roots of plants from drying out. Mulching is of especial value to the busy Victory gardener, for it is a good substitute for hoeing or watering. Mulching material should be applied after a good fall of rain.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, mulching between the rows of vegetables with straw, hay, dried lawn clippings, leaves or similar material will help to conserve moisture and also keep down weeds.

Shallow rooted plants such as raspberries should be mulched to protect their roots from the danger of being scorched during the hot summer months. Strawberry fruits will be found to be much cleaner than normally if mulching material (straw is good) is placed around the plants.

When mulching fruit trees keep the mulching material from four to six inches away from the trunk, as illustrated. When a mulch is placed too close to the tree trunk it affords a sheltered place for mice with dangerous access to the bark of the tree.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JUNE 15, 1943.

An informational item reveals that a navy bugler must learn 104 tunes—probably including encores.

Probably due to war conditions, the Cleveland Indians didn't look like pennant winners as long as usual this season.

An official spokesman in Italy complains of lack of exactitude in Allied demands—but surely the Italian language has words that mean "unconditional surrender."

'E' Proclaims Tappan Excellence

MANSFIELDERS who have had opportunity to become acquainted with the fine spirit of employe-employer interest and co-operation that has extended through the 54-year operation of the Tappans in this city can fully understand how it came about that the Tappan Stove company is among the early local recipients of the Army-Navy "E" award "for outstanding production of war materials."

The habit of doing things well had become so thoroughly ingrained in the Tappan organization, and the trait of loyalty had been so well developed through more than a half century of friendly relations and mutual understanding, that the same elements of industry, dependability, progressive thinking and excellent workmanship carried through from the requirements of peace-time production to the increased tempo of war-time operation.

"This award," says the formal announcement from the navy department, "symbolizes your country's appreciation of every man and woman in the Tappan Stove company. . . . I am confident that your outstanding record will bring victory nearer by inspiring others to similar high achievement."

The three Tappan sons, carrying on the work of their father, the late W. J. Tappan, founder of the company, have been inspired by his example in establishing employer-employe relations on the firm ground of friendly interest, and it was this organization that pioneered in many of the early steps toward betterment of employe welfare as an essential part of successful industrial operation.

The broad program of the Tappan Mutual Benefit association; the group insurance plan; the employes' credit facilities; vacations with pay—and long-continuance of the once common practice of giving each employe a turkey for Christmas—all of these provide a background for quick understanding of how the Tappan company was in position to qualify for the honor that is to be accorded it tomorrow afternoon.

Research Visions New Frontiers

EVERY great war opens a new frontier. Prior to the first World war, the frontiers were geographic. The Civil war was followed by the great westward trek of war-weary men and women looking for new opportunities and a new life.

With the close of the current conflict, at least a major portion of the new frontier, like that of twenty-five years ago, will be in the industrial field. But instead of automobiles, it will lie this time in the scientific development of the nation's natural resources.

Research men of the coal, metal mining and oil industries, working quietly in laboratories surrounded by military secrecy, have lifted the veil of the future. They have seen the new frontier in all its promise, and enough hints regarding its nature and extent have leaked out to stir imagination.

The miracles of sulfa drugs, derivatives of coal, are just one phase of the coming revolution in discovery and research. Rubber synthetics are multiplying along with plastics and other materials, each of which can easily mean the establishment and growth of an entire new industry. Beyond these is a vast realm of discovery of which the public as yet knows nothing.

This country has just begun to grow. Individual initiative and the capitalistic system are inseparable from the American type of government.

Rise In Farm Values Noted

CHICAGO reports a moderate boom in Illinois farmland. According to Federal Reserve bank reports, prices have risen 16 per cent from April, 1942, to the same month in 1943, with a 5 per cent increase from January to April of this year.

With this happening in Illinois, something of the same sort is probably under way in other states, although gains elsewhere may not be rapid. Obviously such a rise in values, if continuous, would double the price of farmland in a little more than six years, representing a good investment return.

Facts are not clear as to the meaning of this upward movement. It may indicate simply that farm land values are paralleling a rise in general prices. Or it may be that there is a real trend back to the land on the part of city people. A study of the purchasers—who they are and why they are buying—would be interesting.

More Millions Will Fly

ANYONE who thinks this is an uncomfortable world just now may be consoled by the prospect of great changes for the better after the war.

One such change, according to the Office of War Information, will be in air travel. As many as 20,000,000 passengers a year within the next decade are forecast. Considering the increase just before the war, this is not improbable. In 1939, figures of the Civil Aeronautics Administration show, less than 1,000,000 passengers were carried; in 1940 the number jumped to 2,959,000 and in 1941 to 4,060,000. This rate of increase, if continued, would bring air rates within the reach of almost everybody.

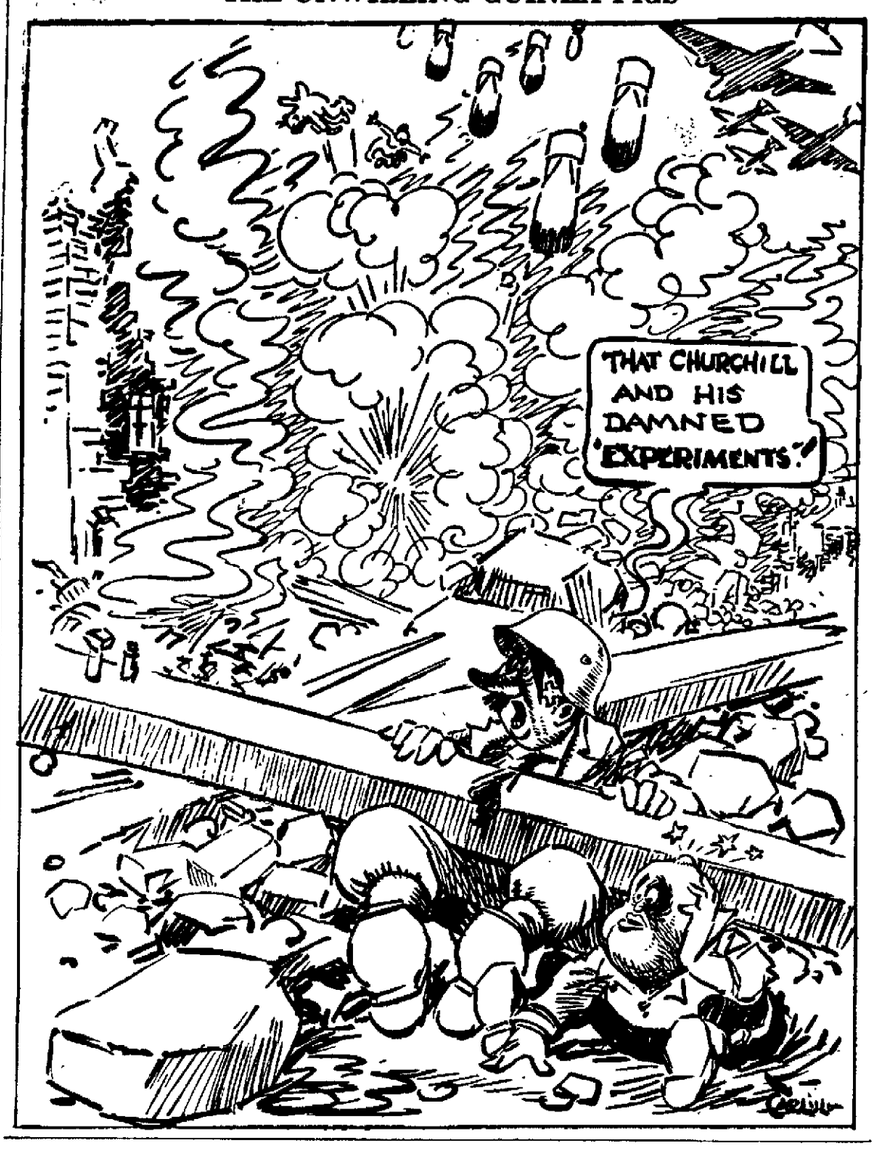
New Industry Has Grown Fast

RAPID GROWTH in frozen food locker plants has resulted in a senate subcommittee investigating the possibility of getting equipment and materials to establish such plants in communities not already served.

Nearly 5,000 food locker plants are now in operation throughout the country, one being in Mansfield, and it is estimated that 1,500,000 individual lockers are in use, with approximately $200 worth of food passing annually through each.

Less than ten years ago the first food locker plants were established in Iowa and the idea spread quickly into other states. It appears that growth in this industry is limited only by the available supply of equipment and materials.

THE UNWILLING GUINEA PIGS



Vinson's Role In New Reshuffle

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Every time the administration reshuffles the cards (and not since the appointment of Secretaries of War Stimson and Navy Knox has it done much more than that) the question is where in the wartime deck will the next honors show up.

When the president established the Office of War Mobilization, it was conceded here that it was no more than a reshuffle of the same old deck—with one possible exception. That exception was, of course, Justice Fred M. Vinson, of the District of Columbia court of appeals. "Why Vinson?" asked a lot of observers. The answer is easy.

Vinson, as a member of the special court to hear price-fixing appeals (he was appointed by Chief Justice Stone) made judicial history with his opinion holding that a Brooklyn bank couldn't up the rental on safety deposit boxes.

ALTHOUGH he admitted that the Price Control Act was "a breath-taking legislative departure from our peacetime economic policy," he hewed to the letter of the law. He went further. He admitted that the rental on safety deposit boxes was "'a milligramic weight" in the balance of the cost of living, but he opined that only by holding down these "minute quanta" could the catastrophe of inflation be averted.

That opinion alone was enough to endear him to the administration and earn him the appointment of director of economic stabilization. If his predecessor, James F. Brynes, is right (and Byrnes certainly had a hand in drawing up the OWM executive order), Vinson's job will continue to be one of a court of appeals in all matters affecting the nation's home-front economics.

In the days that come and the developments that come in congress and in OWM, there are some things to remember about Fred M. Vinson. When he resigned from the house of representatives in 1938 to accept the post on the district appeals court (which some jurists consider second only to the U. S. supreme court in prestige and authority), he was chairman of the house ways and means subcommittee handling taxation.

* * *

ALTHOUGH it is customary in both houses of congress to give departing members a lacy ovation, the one handed Vinson was close to tops. It was climaxed when the late Speaker Bankhead stepped down from the dais to tell the house that Vinson had the keenest analytical mind that it had ever been his experience to come in contact with. Vinson knows the house, the senate—and taxation.

Although he is almost painfully serious, there is nothing stand-offish or unapproachable about him.

He is almost vicious in his attack on work. Whenever he gets started on a vexing problem, meals, sleep, recreation (mostly bridge) and social contacts go by the board. Perhaps this is habit. When he was a student at Centre college, Danville, Ky., he was college librarian, student instructor, star shortstop on the baseball team, quarterback on the football joy in mathematics and Latin.

He is a 53-year-old native of Louisa, Ky., and his political rise was more or less routine. He was city attorney, commonwealth (district) attorney, member of the house of representatives (in 1924.)

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, June 15, 1923.

Four Republicans and three Democrats were seeking nomination for office of mayor, following announcement by Henry G. Brunner that he would not be candidate for fourth term.

Birth report: Daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Hammond, 364 West Fourth street.

Harry C. Karcher finished sophomore year at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and took summer job at Keystone, N. J.

James E. Corry, 82, of Tiro, died while visiting in Mansfield.

Shiloh school in Cass township was first in Richland county to secure an instructor in agriculture, under provisions of Smith-Hughes law.

High hill in Worthingtown township, east of Butler, was scene of Ku Klux Klan demonstration.

Miss Helen Schroer was home from LaSalle seminary, Auburndale, Mass., to spend the summer.

TODAY IN HISTORY

One of the country's greatest maritime disasters occurred on June 15, 1904, when the excursion steamer General Slocum caught fire while going through Hell Gate, a section of New York's East River, with a Sunday school picnic party aboard. The lives of 1,021 persons were lost, mostly women and children.

One Man's Opinion

ON OCT. 8, 1942 we told you "parents whose sons have turned zooty, are advised to burn the clothes, fumigate, then call the nearest army recruiting station.

"Or eventually they will be calling the wagon for the zoot suit is more than a freak Prince Albert . . . it's a state of mind and it ain't good."

So in Los Angeles in June 1943 they had to call the wagon and all the psychologists said that zoot suiting was a state of mind.

This is what comes of disregarding the advice of Kiernan the prophet.

My extra special green sheet code for today is that the anti-strike bill which congress has just passed won't work.

It looks like it was written by a committee trapped in a revolving door.

Timely Editorial

We Believe In the WAACs.

As to the state of morals among our Waacs in Algeria, which has become a subject of uncomplimentary rumor and sorry gags among those who prefer that the fun be not too clean, we are accepting the testimony of John Lardner, one of 100 newspaper reporters on the spot and in a position to know that the Waacs in Africa are a decent, patriotic and hard-working body of American women.

Mr. Lardner disposes of the worst of the rumors. There are others, having to do with the motives and usefulness of the girls in uniform, which are as unfounded and unjust.

We believe that what drew the average Waac to the service is what attracted the young enlisted man to the colors—no more and certainly no less: A love of country, a willingness to participate actively in the work there is to do, an urge to be part of great events and to gather, in still impressionable years, the background of an enriched later life.

Because our Waacs are as good as American womankind can offer, reflections upon their morals and abilities do not stop with the corps. They indict a sex. Nothing so far produced in the way of tangible fact supports any such indictment.—Detroit News.

As Others See It

Last Pop Price War.

In its flashing colors you could see the shadowy forms of the Minute Men of Lexington, the Colonials who staked their lives on a dram, the embattled farmers, the trail breakers, the covered wagon pioneers, the conquerors of a wilderness and the builders of this nation.

* * *

It's the flag of Americans who took hardships in their stride, licked their weight in wildcats and yet always had time for devotion in the chapels on the templed hills.

* * *

Calling what was done to Pantelleria "softening up" was the war's greatest understatement so far. I was surprised that there was enough left to surrender.

* * *

Maybe surrender was the wrong word. The commander could have been asked to turn it in, including the dust.

And that sure seemed like a piece of irony to demand that the Italians leave all installations "undamaged."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Streamlined Program Developed To Entertain Foreign Dignitaries

WASHINGTON—So many presidents and prime ministers have been visiting Washington that state department protocol experts have worked out a production line system for handling visiting dignitaries. The pattern of entertainment is set from the time the basic structure is begun at the White House, until the finished product is delivered aboard the outgoing plane at Miami.

Whether it be the president of Bolivia, Liberia, Czechoslovakia, or Paraguay, there is always a one-night-stand at the White House with a formal dinner, followed by three days at the stately Blair House across Pennsylvania Avenue, where new green sod was laid in the front lawn just before the season opened.

Detroit is the next stop, where a tour of Willow Run wearies the visitors' legs but amazes their minds at American production, and where Henry Ford (now that Edsel is dead) entertains at lunch In the afternoon they see skeletons of tanks at one end of the Chrysler line, then finished tanks at the other. Finally they take a ride to see what the interor of a tank is like.

Buffalo displays its aircraft next day, with luncheon by Burdette Wright, and dinner by Larry Bell of Bell Aircraft.

At New York, the visitors stay in the presidential suite at the Waldorf, and move about the town behind motorcycle police.

From one city to another, they ride in a pair of luxury Pullmans, of which the presidential car is equipped with five bedrooms and two lounge rooms.

All in all, it's a breath-taking experience. Axis countries started entertaining Latins abroad before we did, but if we learned the trick from them, we added wrinkles they never thought of.

Most important wrinkle is that we give an indelible impression that the United States is producing the men and the materials which will win the war.

New Tax Czar.

HERE'S one inside reason why the president lost 75% of his battle against the Ruml tax plan, and also why he has finally put Jimmy Byrnes in the job of tax coordinator.

It happens that Henry Morgenthau, who has done a good job as secretary of the treasury, is extremely pernickety when it comes to anyone else barging in on his preserve.

No one outside the White House knows it, but Henry actually went to the president some weeks ago to complain that Jimmy Byrnes was meddling in the tax picture. Henry didn't like it, said that taxes were his domain.

FDR passed it off good-naturedly, but did not back up his secretary of the treasury. After all, Jimmy Byrnes was then economic stabilizer and taxes are one of the most important means of preventing inflation and bringing about economic stabilization.

When Byrnes heard about Morgenthau's complaint, however, he decided to keep absolutely aloof from taxes. The president didn't want him to keep aloof, but Jimmy's feelings were slightly ruffled and he let Henry handle taxes all by himself.

If Byrnes had taken off his coat and gone up on Capitol Hill, the tax bill might have been different, for he packs powerful persuasion.

Later Bernie Baruch was offered Judge Vinson's job, replacing Byrnes as economic stabilizer. But Bernie refused unless he could control taxes. This would have put him over Morgenthau, and the president refused to supersede Henry. But now, Roosevelt has officially made Byrnes the coordinator of taxes. He will coordinate between Morgenthau and congress.

Jesse Wants a Ride.

JESSE JONES would like to hitch-hike to Newport News next Saturday, and take Mrs. Jones along. For the moment, he doesn't see any other way of getting there.

The occasion is the launching of the new cruiser Houston, for which Jesse's home town folks raised $84,000,000 in war bonds, after the sinking of the old Houston in the Pacific.

But the boats that used to run from Washington to Norfolk and Newport News are limping along with a limited service, while a train ride would involve day coach travel from Richmond, possibly standing in the aisle.

As for taking a plane, Mrs. Jones puts her foot down firmly, remembering all too keenly that accident a few years ago when her husband escaped death in Louisiana only because the pilot, wrapped in flames, remained at the controls, and made a landing which caused his own death but saved the passengers.

Finally, Jesse is scrupulous about using his own car for what would be pleasure driving.

So Mr. Jones, a wealthy man, who controls more government agencies than any other man in town, is hoping somebody will give him and the Missus a ride to Newport News next Saturday.

Health of Soldiers Is Carefully Guarded; Quinine and Sanitation Ward Off Malaria.

(One of a series on a 13,000-mile flight made before Tunisia fell.)

SOMEWHERE IN AFRICA — (By Wireless) — Here's a good lesson in not believing everything you hear. Up in North Africa last winter there was a report from people who should know that more than 50 per cent of our troops in tropical Africa were down with malaria. We just accepted it as true.

But when I went to Central Africa I found that malaria among our soldiers was less than 1 per cent! And dysentery is even lower.

The false rumor was based on one single detachment of troops. They were the first to hit Africa last spring, they were in an infected jungle, they were without mosquito nets for the first four days, and practically the whole camp came down with malaria. The percentage was actually greater than the rumored 50, in that one case.

But that was soon over, and today that place is as healthy as any other. And nowhere else have we ever had a serious run of the fever.

Actually, the general health of our troops in the tropics is better than in the average camp at home, army doctors say. It's because we exercise such extraordinarily careful protection over our men's health. You can't travel around Central Africa without feeling a tremendous pride in the army's medical and sanitary corps.

LET'S GO to another part of Africa—a place so deep that it takes days of flying to get there. Right from our camp you can hear the throb of tom-toms all over the country at night. The soldiers only have to take a boat ride to shoot crocodiles. The place is practically the capital of malaria and dysentery.

Our campsite—picked by local officials—was in the worst swamp around. Yet the Americans thrive there. The answer lies in spraying and burning and oiling the swamps, using mosquito netting, watching all dirt and filth, and taking 10 grains of quinine a day.

They had an astonishing example there of American sanitation. The troops were living out in this swamplike camp. But the army nurses were living temporarily in the nearby city. They were living in a hotel—a big, modern, lovely place.

And every single one of the nurses came down with dysentery—one of them died—while only three of the soldiers out in the swamp got dysentery. Those three cases were traced to eating occasional meals in town, at the same place the nurses got their.

AN ARMY doctor told me the other day that probably every one of our soldiers in that area does have malaria germs in him, but the daily quinine keeps them from becoming active. I asked him, then, how long it would take the germs to die after leaving malarial country.

"If we were to be ordered home tomorrow," he said, "I'd have the boys continue their daily quinine for six weeks. By that time all the germs would be out of them."

Throughout the tropics all Americans sleep under mosquito netting, and wear boots of an evening, and most of them take quinine. In some places they take one tablet a day (five grains), and in more dangerous places two a day. Nobody uses face nets, so far as I know.

A few people can't take quinine. It gives them a bid skin rash, and too much ringing in the ears. These people are put on atabrine. And then there are other people who are allergic to atabrine and get deathly sick after taking it. These people are kept on quinine.

A FEW of our men have cracked up under the tropical strain and had to be sent home. But they are very few. The average man gets along all right in the tropics if he is careful, keeps regular hours, and doesn't drink too much.

It is true that the tropics sap your energy. You just don't have the old git-up-and-git you had back home. You feel sleepy of a morning, you're a little dopey most of the time, you welcome the siesta after lunch. You're less efficient than back home.

In one of our camps where soldiers were doing hard manual labor such as mixing concrete, they tried both an hour and a half and two hours and a half for the lunch-and-rest period. Hospital figures showed the two-and-a-half-hour noon rest was necessary. So that's what they're on now.

But of course, they're young. Now me, at my age, I have to rest all day.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Since You Are Gone.

My life is here and there with no
Fixed purpose anywhere,
I come and go uncertainly
As sunlight, wind or air.

For you are gone across far seas
And with you goes my thought,
My routined way and everything
We, two, together sought.

Strange living holds me now, days are
An unfamiliar scheme,
I move as if a nightmare held
Me in a dreadful dream.

A Farmer's Diary By CALVIN A. BYERS

Good Neighbors

"I NEVER thought of such a thing—" the grayhaired farmer said—"until one cool wet day, nigh the middle o' April, when I was way up yonder on that there hill, a fittin' for oats. It looked clear in the forenoon and I worked the team a mite too hard, so's I could drill right after dinner. By one, I had the oats and fertilizer strung along the end of the field.

"I'd sowed an acre when it began to cloud but I kept right on, a-thinkin' to myself I'd do all I could. I had four acres to go yet and I rushed by poor team right along. I knew the tenant farmer in that valley to the west was drillin' to, in the field just over the hill. What was unbeknownst to me was that while his horses was havin' a blow, didn't he creep right up to the hill top, twice't, to see how I was doin'.

"I had just one acre yet, when it started to mist. I looked up, in my hurry, and dogged if I didn't see him standin' right on top o' the hill, with his team and drill, ready to help me finish. He tied his horses to a saplin' and helped me refill the drill, so's I'd get on some faster. Then he covered up what fertilizer and oats was left to keep the rain from gettin' on 'em. Rain came down faster, on the last round—but him and me set there on our drills and grinned at each other, because we both had our oats in.

"Last fall, late, he had his horses in that field yonder. One rolled and swung her feet into the wire fence and a front foot got caught right under the shoe. I heard the wire jingle and knew somethin' was wrong . . . so I grabbed my pliers and went up. When I got there the horse was flat and couldn't get up. She'd struggled until she was clear 'poohed out!' I edged up to the fence, careful like, and cut a hole right out o' the fence before she knew she was loose.'

"That wasn't nothing — any tramp would have done as much. I done it for the sufferin' horse, and never even told him, even after I mended the hole in the fence.

"Yeah — we like to see each other get along. We do our hayin' together and our wheat cuttin,' too. My wife says we get in plenty o' visitin' on the side. Anyhow we wuz happy when he bought the farm, last spring. He'll stay right on, now bein's it's his place."

I paused, taking time to choose my words with care. Then I said:

"He would have to know that Steve had forged the letter to Olina, and he already is so wrought up about Steve, that I would fear the effect upon him of knowing this latest performance of the man he detests so violently."

He thought that over, then put another swift question:

"You say he is so wrought up about Steve. Has anything happened recently to upset him?"

"Ah—here it comes!" I thought, dismayed. Then, reassured by the thought of his promise to my father I told him of Steve's activities of the morning.

He frowned as he listened to my story of Steve's complaints to me about Constance Bridgeman's stealing the show from him, and his gloomy prediction that Mary would lose her public to Constance if she stayed out of the cast too long. To my relief, he laughed when I gave him that last choice tidbit.

"If it weren't so irritating, it would be amusing," he said. "But tell me,—why should Noel be so concerned about this when Steve didn't go to Mary with it?"

"He would have gone to Mary, if I hadn't put a guard over him," I said.

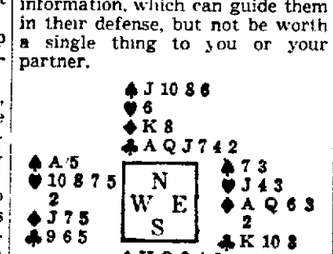
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP THE ENEMY

Every army likes to keep some secrets from the enemy, and it is the same with the keenest bridge players. When you already know everything of importance to the selecting of the correct declaration of your side, there is no point in bidding in such a way as to give the opponents a lot of additional information, which can guide them in their defense, but not be worth a single thing to you or your partner.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠
2. 1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

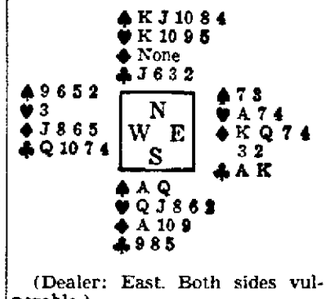
Many more pretty good players bid like the North-South pair in Table 1 above than like those in Table 2, but—if you will pardon the expression—it is very rotten bidding. On this deal, it cost the side two tricks. West was scared away from leading either clubs or hearts, so opened a diamond, and consequently his side could not help taking three tricks.

At the other table, North saw that his side should play the hand in spades, and virtually shut off the conversation between himself and his partner with his bid of 3-spades. South properly went to 4-spades, instead of childishly bidding 4-Hearts As a result of his soundness, West had to guess, and made the most logical one of a heart, the 5 South promptly took three rounds of that suit, tossing off dummy's two diamonds, scored the club A, let the club Q ride for a diamond discard when East failed to cover, then ruffed a club with the spade K and led the spade Q.

West thus managed to get a trick with his spade A, but that was all for his side—solely because he was against opponents who do not merely like to hear themselves talk as much as possible.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What three consecutive efforts should South make, seeking his contract of 4-Hearts, after West leads the diamond 5?

D. A. R. CHAPTER HAS VICTORY LUNCHEON

Mrs. J. A. Rigby Has Final Meeting of Club Year; Mrs. E. R. Hartman, Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson and Mrs. Merrell Manz Assist.

MONDAY AFTERNOON at 1 o'clock, a victory luncheon at the country home of Mrs. J. A. Rigby was held, in celebration of Flag day, by the Mary Washington chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. E. R. Hartman, Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson and Mrs. Merrell Manz were assistant hostesses for the final meeting of the year.

The patriotic color scheme was carried out in lovely flowers of red, white and blue, that centered the small tables at which thirty-eight members and five guests were seated. The guests were Mrs. William Fell Brown, Mrs. William F. Black, Mrs. Edwin Jelliff of Fort Dix, N. J., Mrs. Wright of San Francisco, Cal., and Mrs. John Tucker, a non-resident member, of Washington, D. C.

Place cards were engraved with the American flag, and American flags also topped with individual molds of ice cream which were in the form of battleships.

The afternoon was spent playing bridge, Chinese checkers and gin rummy. The winners received "victory prizes" which were all things produced on the farm and preserved at home, and each was accompanied by an appropriate limerick composed by Mrs. Merrill Manz, jr. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Clayton Wagner, Miss Ada Sturges, Mrs Avery Hand, Mrs. George Mead, Mrs George Searle, Mrs. L. J. Bonar, Mrs. J. H. Sanford, Mrs. L. W. Olson and Mrs. Weston Cutter. A guest prize was awarded Mrs. Wright of San Francisco.

WLB Decision Likely to Ignore Portal-to-Portal Pay

DAVIS HOLDS COURT SHOULD SETTLE ISSUE

Doubts Union Can Claim Extra Wage Under Provision of Present Law.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The War Labor board decision in the United Mine Workers' wage dispute may leave the underground travel pay issue unsettled, informed sources indicated today.

Sources pointed out that Chairman William H. Davis regards the controversy over the union demand for portal-to-portal (underground travel) pay as an attempt to settle a legal claim out of court.

An out-of-court settlement presumes willingness to accept by both parties, but observers doubt that UMW President John L. Lewis would accept any settlement in line with the publicly expressed views of the board. He has repeatedly flouted the board and refused to recognize its jurisdiction.

The union based its claim for portal-to-portal pay on a federal court decision interpretating the wage-hour law. Davis said he thought the union could claim nothing under the law unless the average miners' travel time exceeded five hours weekly—the difference between the miners' basic 35-hour week and the basic 40-hour week of the wage-hour act.

The UMW originally claimed that travel time average 90 minutes a day, but Lewis agreed to a figure of one hour in reaching a tentative agreement with central Pennsylvania operators last week for $1.30 daily in portal-to-portal pay.

If the WLB accepted the one-hour figure and allowed no payment for travel time under 40 hours a week, it would award no portal-to-portal pay for a five-day week and a maximum of $1.50 a week (for one hour at an overtime rate on the sixth day) for the present six-day week.

The WLB resumed consideration of the case today after a two-day lapse. It is expected to release its decision today or tomorrow. Union refusal to accept the decision will leave the threat of a new work stoppage next Monday hanging over the coal fields.

The UMW policy committee meets tomorrow and presumably will discuss its course of action when the deadline expires and how enactment of the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill might affect a new stopage. Labor is unalterably opposed to the bill.

DRIVERS FINED IN MUNY COURT

Two Motorists Get Penalty For Unsafe Operation; Third Cited.

Two Mansfield drivers had been fined in municipal court today on unsafe driving charges while a third was ordered to appear in county juvenile court this afternoon, and a Canton motorist was released after posting $16.30 bond.

After pleading innocent yesterday to an unsafe driving charge, Dr. Joseph B. Alexander, 543 Park avenue west, changed his plea and was fined $10 and costs by Judge H. H. Schettler who suspended his driving rights for 30 days. Police said Dr. Alexander's car struck two utility poles Sunday night on Lexington avenue.

Also cited for unsafe operation, John J. Bautz, Mansfield R. D. 2, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court this morning.

Harold Dean Bowman, Mansfield R. D. 4, was ordered by police to appear in juvenile court this afternoon on a charge of driving with a temporary permit and unaccompanied by a licensed driver. He was taken into custody yesterday on Springmill street.

Arrested yesterday afternoon on Park avenue west for speeding, Abraham Cohen, Canton, posted $16.30 bond and waived hearing on the charge.

GROUNDS OPEN

226 Register on Opening Day of Playlots.

Mansfield city parks' summer playground program swung into action yesterday with activities at John's, Prospect and Liberty parks.

Recreation Director Al Fendrick said opening day attendance had far exceeded his estimate of 150. Reports from the parks show that 226 children took advantage of the varied athletic program.

SCHOOLS OPEN

Vacation Bible Classes Start at Eight Churches.

Vacation Bible school opened in eight city churches yesterday, with attendance reported "good."

Mrs. Albert L. Linder, chairman of the Bible school committee, could give no official attendance figure this morning but said yesterday's attendance was higher than the first day last year.

The school will run through June 25 with the pupils studying "Adventure Through Holy Land." Classes meet Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until 11:30 a. m.

Schools are located at Park Avenue Baptist church, St. John's Evangelical church, Salvation Army, First United Brethren, St. Matthew's Lutheran, St. Paul's Lutheran, Mayflower Congregational and Union Gospel.

GOES UP TO 91

Temperature Hits High, More Showers Forecast.

A thundershower in Mansfield shortly after noon today cooled the air temporarily after the mercury climbed to 86 at noon, but the weatherman said the heat would return this afternoon and tonight. More thundershowers were forecast for tonight.

A reading of 91 degrees yesterday set a record for the year in Mansfield, topping Sunday's high by one degree. The average for the past 24 hours was 80.5, more than 13 degrees above normal. The heat was general in Ohio, most of the state reporting readings in excess of 90. Cleveland's peak was 94.

The showers were welcomed today by Mansfield gardeners who said the top soil is dry and newly-planted vegetables need more moisture to give them a start.

PASTOR TO BE ARMY CHAPLAIN

ASHLAND — Rev. L. Francis Scheffler has been granted a leave of absence as pastor of the Church of Christ at Jeromesville to enter the U. S. army as a chapiain for the duration. Rev. Scheffler will leave July 2 for Harvard university where he will receive training for a six weeks' period.

He had occupied the Jeromesville pastorate there for nearly two years. He is a graduate of Cincinnati Bible seminary in the class of 1934 and served pastorates at Indianapolis, Ind., Greenfield and Akron, Ohio and Conro, Tex., before coming to Jeromesville.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR
She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AGREE TO KEEP '42 TAX RATE

Treasury, Congress Conferees Say There'll Be No Change Before January 1944.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional tax leaders and the treasury apparently agreed today that there would be no change in income tax rates to be applied on 1943 incomes.

After conferring with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, the chairman of the house and senate tax-writing committees announced that any tax bill written by congress this year "would not become effective until Jan. 1, 1944."

This would have the effect of continuing present income tax rates for 1943. The tax rates, now written into the law, were designed to apply on 1942 incomes.

President Roosevelt, in his budget message to congress last January, declared that $16,000,000,000 more in new taxes, savings, or both, should be drawn out of 1943 earnings.

Rep. Doughton (D) S. C., chairman of the house ways and means committee, acting as spokesman for the senate and house tax leaders, asserted upon leaving Morgenthau's office:

"It was agreed that every reasonable effort will be made to enact a tax bill this year, the main provision of which would not become effective before Jan. 1, 1944."

Tax leaders on Capitol Hill, meanwhile, indicated to treasury officials, that they were reluctant to begin work on any new tax bill in advance of the expected congressional recess.

ATTEND RITES

Mansfielders Go To Funeral For A. E. Stocker, 71.

Funeral services were held Monday in Canton for Alvin E. Stocker, 71, blind cigar store proprietor who started his business career in the old VanHof hotel in Mansfield.

Mr. Stocker, who died last Friday in Mercy hospital, Canton, purchased the Mansfield cigar stand in 1893, trading it a year later for a stand in a Canton hotel. He was in business for more than 40 years in Canton, one of the best known tobacco wholesalers in northern Ohio. His last place of business was in the Courtland hotel, Canton.

The widow, Mrs. Maude M. Stocker is the former Miss Maude Cox of Mansfield. One son, Lieut. Earl R. Stocker, is stationed at Lowry Field, Colo.

A number of relatives and friends in Mansfield and Richland county attended the services yesterday. They included Mrs. Rupert F. Cox and family, Mrs. Robert Beard, Miss Beatrice Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cox, Arthur H. Cox of Ganges, and Mr. and Mrs. Merle McCormick of Shelby.

Order Ashland Jail Made More 'Escape Proof'

ASHLAND — Ashland county jail is going to be a more difficult place to get out of in the near future. Ashland county commissioners have authorized Sheriff L. D. Hammond to install three-eighths inch mesh wire screen on all windows in the jail to help prevent any further jail breaks such as that accomplished recently by a Clevelander, Edward Lawarski, 24 hours before he was to go to Ohio penitentiary.

With the screening firmly fastened over the barred windows, the job of slipping saws and similar items to prisoners through the windows from the outside will be increasingly difficult, commissioners believe.

Lawarski was subsequently apprehended and sent to the penitentiary, but commissioners believe further breaks might be attempted without the screen protection.

KING SENDS CONDOLENCES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — (U.P.) — Arthur G. Baraw, secretary of the police commission, received personal condolences from King George of England for the death of his son, Pilot Officer James Baraw of the RAF, who was shot down May 27, 1942.

FUNERAL HELD

Rites For Elmer C. Wood, 80, Conducted at Church.

GALION — Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Quakerdom church, two miles south of Mt. Gilead, for Elmer C. Wood, 80, father of Clarence Wood of Galion.

Mr. Wood died Saturday afternoon at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus. He had been ill three weeks with heart trouble.

The family home where he was born on June 6, 1863, and resided his entire life was in the vicinity of the Quaker church, two miles south of Mt. Gilead.

His widow, the former Anna Harris, survives, together with his son Clarence, and a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Chilcote of Mt. Gilead. One grandson, Robert Wood of Galion, and a granddaughter, Carol Ann Chilcote, also survives.

RITES HELD FOR MRS. PICKERING

GALION — Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Johnson funeral home in Wooster for Mrs. Rose Pickering, 72, mother of E. R. Pickering, principal of Galion Senior high school. The body will be taken to Costa Mesa, Calif., for burial.

Mrs. Pickering died Saturday afternoon at the hospital in Wooster where she was taken last Monday following a stroke of paralysis. She was visiting relatives in Wooster previous to coming to Galion to spend some time with her son and family. Her home was in Costa Mesa, but she had been living with her children in Ohio for the past year.

Surviving besides her son, E. R. of Galion, are two daughters, Mrs. Marie Nichol of St. Clairsville, who will accompany the body to California; Mrs. Earl Gossett of Banock, and two other sons, Lee and Clyde of St. Clairsville.

WOMEN HONORED FOR WAR BOND RECORD AT LUNCHEON TDAY

"The American woman who has taken her place in defense and patriotic activities on the home front is the source of inspiration to the men at the home front," Frank B. Pauly, deputy administrator of the War Savings Staff of Ohio, said today at a meeting of the Rotary Club honoring the women's committee of the Richland county war savings staff.

Pauly pointed out that Richland county women in the second War Loan drive in April set an example that all the country might emulate. He said that it was typical of Mrs. Louis J. Ott, chairman and her committee and typical of Mansfield and Richland county that the $150,000 goal which was set for the women was exceeded by nearly $500,000.

Mrs. Ott who was selected first bond champion of Richland county and then of Region 6 for the month of April was presented with a medal, and a $25 bond in recognition of her work.

Certificates of merit were awarded members of the committee including Mrs. Christine E. Fernyak, Mrs. Margaret Ford, Miss Justine Sterkel, Mrs. Margaret M. Black, Mrs. Louise Brown, Mrs. Henrietta Pierce, Mrs. Margaret H. Russell, Mrs. Helen Meihack, Mrs. Mildred Perry, Mrs. Ann L. Wentz and Mrs. A. J. Goldsmith.

Pauly told the Rotarians that buying bonds and urging the people around them to buy bonds is the distinctive part they have in building the home front. He said that every bond that is bought will bring the boys home, bring them home sooner and bring more of them home.

Harold Bredlow, executive secretary of the Ohio war savings staff, originally scheduled as the speaker was unable to be present having been unexpectedly called to Washington.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Lamb, chairman of the program.

Navy Officers To Confer With Men On Commissions

With the U. S. navy seeking to commission officers from civilian ranks, two navy officers are scheduled to arrive in Mansfield Thursday to interview prospective candidates for commissions.

Comprising a mobile board, Lieut. P. W. Silfies and Lieut. R. J. Yaeger will open headquarters in the Farmers' Bank building where they will conduct interviews from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Commissions are open to men from 21 to 50 who are not now engaged in war work or employed by federal agencies. To qualify, applicants must have a college education or considerable business and professional experience.

The navy needs men with experience as petroleum engineers, business executives, chemical engineers, doctors, dentists, salvage authorities, lawyers, chaplains, and radio engineers, the recruiting board said.

Assisting the navy interviewing board in locating candidates in the Mansfield and Richland county area will be a committee of 19 Mansfield business and professional men.

Members of the committee are Paul M. Eliot, Carlton S. Fernyak, Capt. James R. Harrington, C. H. Henkel, Lewis F. Hartman, Joy A. Herbert, A. C. Rhoads, George H. Smith, C. L. VanDerau, John S. Jones, A. L. Allen, R. D. Lindsay, H. W. Arlin, Henry G. Brunner, G. L. Draffan, R. G. Oram, H. G. Balyeat, R. M. Calene and C. M. Crafton.

TURNS DOWN WLB RULING

U. S. Gypsum Says Board Has No Authority To Order Check-Off System.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The United States Gypsum company said today in a paid newspaper advertisement it has rejected a National War Labor Board order to incorporate in a contract with a CIO union at its Warren plant a maintenance of membership clause providing a check-off of union dues.

"The War Labor Board has no authority to impose union maintenance and check-off upon the company," said an advertisement appearing over the name of William L. Keady, Gypsum president.

"The board is not empowered by congress to order any employer to adopt this requirement. The company employes are being confused and deceived into believing their national government desires them to join a labor union when in fact the national policy, as declared by the congress, is that employes are free to join or not to join as they wish.

"The order requires the company to discriminate against an employe in direct violation of the National Labor Relations act. It requires the company to interfere with the free choice of its employes to resign from the union."

The advertisement claimed the maintenance of membership clause established a "form of closed shop" under which employes "would surrender their freedom to the union."

Asserting it respects the right of employes to join a union, the company declared it objects to being compelled to enter a contract it believes illegal, and rejected the order "in keeping with good citizenship."

Reunion Gathering Told 22 Relatives In Armed Services

WILLARD—When the roll was called at the Miller reunion, held at the Grange hall west of here, it was found that 22 young people are now in war service.

An honor roll was prepared by Miss Evelyn Austin and is to be a feature of next year's reunion program.

During the business session following the picnic dinner, the following officers were elected: Walter Miller, Norwalk, president; J. Earl Miller, Willard, vice president; Mrs. Robert Miller, secretary-treasurer.

The arrangements committee named is Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Murray, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Steine, and Miss Austin. Amos Miller of Cleveland gave a report.

HOSPITAL NOTES

SHELBY — Shelby Memorial hospital notes: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Guerin, 12 Williams court, are the parents of a son.

Admitted: Mrs. Sarah Cooper, 85 East Smiley avenue; and dismissed: Mrs. Allene Wallace, 23 Second street, and Miss Betty Meek, 74½ South Gamble street.
